FOREWORD

IN PRESENTING this 1932 edition of the CHERRY TREE to the student body of the George Washington University, it has been the aim of the staff to incorporate within its covers that simplicity, grace, and dignity, that was so prevalent in the books of the lifetime of George Washington; that patriot, whose name the University bears and in furtherance of whose hope it was founded.

DEDICATION

to the memory of

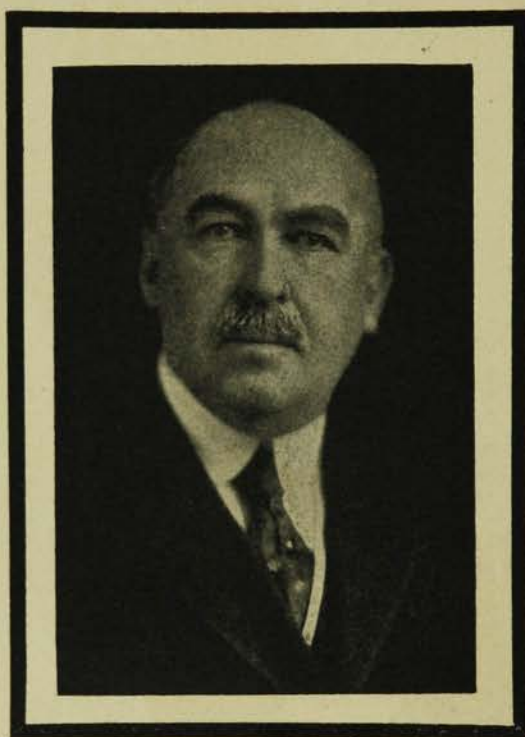

GEORGE WASHINGTON

TATESMAN, educator, organizer, civic worker, cultured gentleman. Such was George Washington. With a rare and fine culture, a diversity and nobility of mind, a genuine love for mankind, he guided his nation in an ever judicious manner which found its fruition in happy accomplishment. He sought no glory for himself, but was jealous only for the duration and reputation of his country. For him no task was too humble if by its fulfillment his country would be enriched; nor was any undertaking too vast if his country would benefit by its performance. A nation rejoices in the inspiration, which, flowing from his life must ever be a stimulus to a more noble American living. To his memory we dedicate this volume.

In Memoriam

"A Patient and Sympathetic Friend"

WASHINGTON believed that a capable and equitable administration was "the firmest pillar of good government." By just administration he built up a nation and by just administration he maintained that nation. "Nothing but the strong arm of the Union, or, in other words, adequate administration, can correct abuses." A firm, controlling hand brings benefits to those who are under its guidance. A strong administration results in a strong country.

HISTORY OF THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

THE IDEA of a university located in the Capital of the Nation was sponsored by George Washington, who during his public life urged the establishment of such an institution and in his will left fifty shares of stock in the Potomac (Canal) Company for the endowment of a university to be established in the District of Columbia "to which the youth of fortune and talents from all parts thereof might be sent for the completion of their Education in all the branches of polite literature; in Arts and Sciences, in acquiring knowledge in the principles of Politics & good Government."

In furtherance of that hope and project of the first President of the United States, this University, founded as Columbian College and now named The George Washington University, was established. The stock which General Washington willed toward such an institution became valueless owing to the failure of the canal properties, and it was necessary for "the College," established in the District of Columbia, to obtain funds from other sources.

In 1819 the Reverend Luther Rice, a Baptist missionary, had formed an association to buy land for the use of a college in the city of Washington. With General Washington's idea in mind, John Quincy Adams, Secretary of State of the United States; William H. Crawford, Secretary of the Treasury; and Return J. Meigs, Postmaster-General, became patrons of the new college and, together with thirty-two members of Congress, contributed to a fund raised for the purchase of the land and the development of the work.

From this fund a tract of approximately forty-seven acres, "extending about one-half mile northwest of Boundary Street (Florida Avenue) between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets," was purchased, and Columbian College in the District of Columbia under the distinguished favor of James Monroe, President of the United States, and his Cabinet, was chartered by an act of Congress of February 9, 1821.

By 1822 the main building was completed sufficiently for use. Dr. William Staughton was elected first President of the institution. Two years later, when the first commencement was held on December 15, 1824, President Monroe, John Q. Adams, John C. Calhoun, Henry Clay, and the Marquis de Lafayette headed the eminent company attending the exercises.

The School of Medicine, established in 1821, was formally opened in 1825 and has been in continuous operation since that time. In 1826 the Law School was organized, to be discontinued the following year and re-established in 1865. It is the oldest law school in Washington and was the first school in the United States to establish a graduate course in law.

By an act of Congress of March 3, 1873, the name of the college was changed to "Columbian University," in recognition of the enlarged scope of the institution. The following year the establishment was moved down town from its first location on "College Hill", now Columbia Heights, to the new University Hall built for it at Fifteenth and H Streets. Near-by buildings accommodated the Medical and Preparatory Schools.

The University was removed by act of Congress of January 23, 1904, from the denominational control under which it had operated for the previous six years, and was provided with a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees empowered to change its name. In accordance with this act, the title of "The George Washington University" was adopted in the same year.

In 1930 a new plan of academic organization was effected, resembling in principle the master-apprentice relation of the old guild system. The University as it is now organized consists of a Junior College, comprising the work of the freshman and sophomore years; a Senior College, known as "Columbian College," which awards the Bachelor's and Master's degrees; a Council for Graduate Study; the professional Schools and Divisions; the Division of University and Extension Students; and the Summer Sessions.

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

THE Junior College includes the first two years of college work. Its curriculum is intended to continue the studies of a general cultural nature begun in the secondary schools, and to lay a foundation for the more specialized work which is to follow. During the freshman and sophomore years emphasis is accordingly laid upon the social, cultural, biological, and physical background of civilization and upon the discipline necessary to the effective prosecution of more advanced work.

The Junior College also provides the pre-professional work required for admission to the respective Schools of Law, Medicine, Education, Government, Fine Arts, and Library Science.

In addition, it provides two two-year curricula, leading to the Junior Certificate, which are intended to meet the needs of students who do not look forward to a four-year college course.

In order that students may have abundant opportunities, not only for assistance in planning their courses of study, but also for personal, educational, and vocational advice in every phase of their academic work during the first two years, a number of the Faculty serve as members of the Board of Advisers to Junior College students. All students are encouraged to consult their advisers on their college problems at any time. These members of the Faculty act in the capacity of general educational advisers rather than as representatives of their respective departments of instruction.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was an educator because his life exemplified the ideal of an American gentleman. First he educated himself; then he educated those young people with whom he came in contact; and eventually he educated the entire people of the United States through the inspiration of his lofty character and by his power of expression. His encompassing intellectuality enabled him to be always a competent leader.

HISTORY OF COLUMBIAN COLLEGE

LUTHER RICE, Columbian College in the District of Columbia, Columbian University, The George Washington University: a man—his lengthening shadow, an institution. While still a student at Williams dedicating himself to the service of God and his fellows, becoming a missionary to Burma, then a missionary to his own countrymen, conceiving the idea of college, pioneering up and down the states in his gig seeking friends and supporters, materializing his idea, and struggling for its maintenance until death overtook him—such was the career of the college's founder. First there was failure when a charter was sought from Congress, and then stopping in the midst of the debate on the Missouri Compromise that same Sixteenth Congress sent forth the charter which guaranteed to teachers and students freedom from all interference on matters of religion.

On a lot of forty-seven acres, north of Florida Avenue, and between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets, overlooking the young capital city the college plant was built, and to the streets which were laid out around it were given from time to time the names of college notables; but one, that of the second President, Chapin, still remaining. On January 15, 1822, thirty-nine students having presented themselves, the faculty was formally inaugurated, and three years later the first graduating class, with three members, was sent forth into the world, while Lafayette, President Monroe, John Quincy Adams, John C. Calhoun, and Henry Clay looked on.

In 1836 died Luther Rice, founder of the College. Those first fifteen years had been arduous ones for the Presidents and for Rice, during most of his time the financial agent. Difficulties had harrassed from the beginning. In 1827 the professors in dismay had resigned in a body. Writing to President Chapin from Georgia in the year of his death Luther Rice had said: "I request you will not mention in the District any expectation of my being there the first of June: merely because, if it should be known, it will excite the creditors of the college to bestir themselves." An increasing number of students was about the only source of encouragement, but after 1836 the fortunes of the College seemed to take a turn for the better. Each year a graduating class of around ten was going out, about half of them into the Christian ministry.

At the outbreak of the war between the states the college was at the peak of prosperity but of the students the greater part soon left for military service, a majority under the Stars and Bars. The College buildings were turned over to the Federal Government, but in spite of all, instruction was still offered for those who remained. After Appomattox the sections found speedy reunion in the College. One graduate, William L. Wilson, later to become Postmaster-General under Cleveland and President of Washington and Lee, returned to his Alma Mater as an instructor still wearing the uniform of a Confederate cavalryman.

Under the presidency of James C. Welling, at the time of his election a Professor in Princeton College, Columbian moved from its old home on College Hill into the heart of the city at Fifteenth and H streets and changed its name to Columbian University, adding somewhat later to the old College and professional schools, the Corcoran Scientific School for part-time students. In 1888, hesitatingly and begrudgingly, the first woman was admitted to the College and a year later co-education was adopted.

In the early years of the present century the University changed to its present name and for a period of a few years the College lost its name and identity when merged with other Schools into the Department of Arts and Sciences, only to reappear some twenty years ago under its old name and fulfilling its old function as a college of liberal arts.

When the United States entered the World War eight hundred students were on the rolls of the College, and then came a speedy transformation. In the sudden movement toward Washington, regular enrollment increased fifty per cent and a Student Army Training Corps Unit of over two hundred and a Naval Unit of forty were formed. Barracks and mess halls were provided, Liberty Loan campaigns staged, and Red Cross units organized. Then came peace, new growth in numbers, in physical equipment, in teaching strength, new determination to follow old ideals, new challenges to larger ideals.

"A University to which the youth of fortune and talents might be sent for the completion of their education in all the branches of polite literature in arts and sciences," such as Washington had sought unsuccessfully by request to make possible, now existed.

Great men, lengthening shadows, a College and a University.

ELMER LOUIS KAYSER.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was the best educated man in the United States of his day. Having had little formal schooling, he was educated chiefly by books and letters, the experience of great responsibilities, and by the tasks that he set for himself. Through life a patron of education, he instituted the first free schooling in Alexandria, Virginia, and by his will left funds for an institution of higher education.

WILLIAM CULLEN FRENCH
Acting Dean

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION of The George Washington University will enter upon its twenty-sixth year of service in September, 1932. The school was founded as a Division of Education in the spring of 1907 and enrolled its first students in the fall of that year. In 1909 the designation was changed to Teachers' College, under which title it operated until 1928, when the present title of The School of Education was adopted.

The immediate stimulus for the organization of the Division of Education was the local demand for the professional training of teachers. The persons who took the initiative in organizing the Division of Education were President Charles Willis Needham and Professor Williston S. Hough. Professor Hough was designated as Professor in Charge of the Division and his title was changed to Dean when the Division was elevated to a College in 1909. In this position Dean Hough continued until his death on September 18, 1912, at the age of 51. He was succeeded by William Carl Ruediger who has been at the helm since 1912.

The persons who hold the honor of being the first graduates of the School of Education are Mr. Claus Johann Schwartz and Mr. Alvin Wilson Miller. Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Miller achieved their degrees at the close of the first year of work, June, 1908.

From these modest beginnings has the School of Education grown. The School now embraces the departments of Education, of Home Economics, and of Physical Education (for teacher training) and it has representatives on its faculty from all the departments in which students are likely to specialize for teaching purposes. Including the summer session, upwards of forty courses in Education are given annually.

WILLIAM CARL RUEDIGER.

ON PRACTICE TEACHING AND OBSERVATION

HUCKED AWAY in an unassuming portion of that famous volume known as the George Washington University catalogue, somewhere in the section allotted to education courses may be found Education 128 and 129, otherwise known as Observation and the Practice of Teaching. The casual observer might pass these by as unimportant and unnecessary, perhaps the playful fancy of a Dean to make his section of the catalogue appear practical. There is a suggestion that here one may learn to keep school, and, in the event that nothing better appears, a floundering graduate may have recourse to these courses as a means of securing a job whereby he may earn some real money, which, though not excessive, nevertheless in these times of depression would be right respectable. For the serious student of the School of Education, the prospective but inexperienced pedagogue, however, these courses possess unusual significance. In brief, these courses are for the amateur school teacher what the clinic plus an internship is to the medical student, or what the moot court plus one to five years of unsuccessful practicing at law is to the barrister. They constitute the breaking-in process for the teacher; and at times, the breaking down.

The uninitiated, seeking credit for Observation and Practice Teaching, may have some pleasant or unpleasant surprises. Having passed the instructor's preliminary oral examination, the candidate is informed that it will be necessary that he go forth and observe at least sixty recitations taught by experienced, practical teachers; that he will be expected to take his theory of method taught in education classes with him into the actual classroom, there to discover applications with view to emulation of them when and if he is permitted to take a class. He will be expected and required to analyze good teaching for its better elements, but no weak point errors, mistakes, or deficiencies. All of this observation is pointed towards the day that the student may be permitted to actually handle a class. As he observes, he plans; for lesson plans, he is told, are essential to good teaching. The instructor is strong on a gradual introduction. He wants to be sure that when the student takes a hand with a class, there will be no fizzle. Besides, the prospective pupils who would suffer, the reputation of the University would suffer if any one of our students failed to make good. Such things, in the mind of the instructor, must not be.

Having passed through the stages of observation in preparation for taking a class, the student may finally be permitted to try his hand. He is now a senior in the School of Education, is loaded with subject matter, and filled with method. He is assigned to a class and to an experienced teacher. But he may not yet teach the class. He must study the special methods, eccentricities, and routines of the teacher to whom he is assigned. When he has mastered these and convinced the teacher that he can handle the class successfully, he may conduct a recitation period. Here is the supreme test of the student-teacher. As time passes, he grows in strength and confidence. His teacher, being sympathetic, will probably discover some ear-marks of excellence. These she will seek to develop.

Students who have done their practice teaching in the School of Education of the George Washington University, are scattered to all parts of the United States, to Alaska, to the Philippine Islands, and to foreign countries. Nearly all of them are successful teachers. Some of them attribute success to the method of acquiring their first experience in Observation and Practice Teaching classes.

J. ORIN POWERS

INSIDE LOOKING OUT

OR NO reason at all we cannot understand why John Shorey, yellow socks, sweater and all, cannot find the same attraction in Janice Hyatt, that he finds in Eleanor Kise.

Also a mystery is the "A" average maintained by the Latin Class—Sarah Casteel, Lorna Dew, Margaret Payne, Bernice Wall, Catharine White—in view of the fact that the professor postponed his Sabbatical leave on their account. Coercion?

Also how Anna Bonner in her gentle, ladylike way, bluffs and gets away with it; and Shorey in his unladylike way ditto.

Is there any point of similarity between Inge von Lewinski and Kay MacCallum (gym majors) and our football men?

Has anybody else noticed the resemblance between Morris Sussman (German for Sweet Man) and Lowell J. Ragatz?

The Siamese triplets in Practice Teaching—Bernice Wall, Grace Bauer, and Eleanor Kise. Are they good? Ask any one of them.

Item: These Physical Education Majors seem to have been well instructed in the linguistic arts. We see Danish, German, and Swedish on their lists. Oh, pardon us—are they gymnastics? Well, we've heard the gym classes call 'em a good many things, but the truth will out.

INTRODUCING A STRANGE NEW BIRD

Graduates in Physical Education? At George Washington University? Never heard of such a thing! !

Nevertheless, it's true, and they're here with us—all prepared to go out and set the world—to playing ping-pong. After years of careful nursing (some even with a bottle of milk twice a day—ask Kay McCallum) they are coming out from under the fluttering wings of Miss Atwell and the Department of Education.

The graduates carry many memories with them—the odoriferous Dogfish of Zoo Lab days and the unforgettable cat that followed in his wake have a clinging quality about them that makes them stand out in any reminiscence. And who will not remember sweltering in the "widow's weeds" (made famous by Dr. Kayser) over in the old Tin Tabernacle where the sun shineth and the winds blow not—alternating with shivering moments in bathing suits in Corcoran Hall.

But here they come—first of a proud and noble race. Who would not exchange with them for the joy of stumbling over stray feet on the greensward or getting socked in the neck by a tennis ball—remaining calm and unruffled all the while and keeping on instructing a class in the correct way to jump in the water—who would exchange these joys for the lot of a classroom teacher—writing the past imperfects of musty Latin verbs on the blackboard until such times as a spitball unerringly finds its mark. At least the first is in the interest of good clean sport.

INGE VON LEWINSKI.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was the first professional engineer in the colonies. At the age of sixteen, under the patronage of Lord Fairfax, he set out on his first expedition into the wilderness to survey his lordship's lands in the Shenandoah Valley. Shortly after, he became Public Surveyor and for three years followed this profession, with work so exact that his surveys are found faultless to this day.

DEAN LAPHAM, C. E.

A. S. C. E., A. C. I., S. P. E. E., A. A. E., and the Washington Society of Engineers.

Dean John Raymond Lapham became associated with the George Washington University in 1916 as an Assistant Professor in Civil Engineering. He soon received the position of Associate Professor and then went to the position of Professor. In 1926 he took over the position of Dean of the Engineering School which he has held to the present date. Last year Dean Lapham was on sabbatical leave, during which time he did intensive research work in Sanitary Engineering at Johns Hopkins University.

He has had numerous interests before becoming Dean which include work in the U. S. Housing Corporation, construction work, and special investigations and tests for manufacturers and users of cement and allied products.

The Dean holds membership in the following organizations: Acacia and Sigma Tau fraternities,

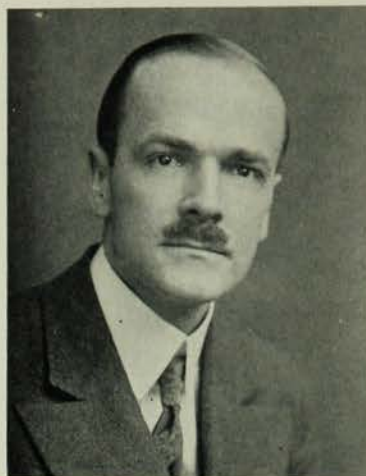

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING of the George Washington University originally bore the name of the Corcoran Scientific School. This Corcoran Scientific School was founded in 1884 and was located on the corner of Fifteenth and H Streets, Northwest, in the old University Hall. The engineering school continued under the name of the Corcoran Scientific School until 1903, when it was combined with the School of Graduate Studies of the Columbian College under the name of the Department of Arts and Sciences. This name was retained for two years. In 1905 all of the engineering courses were placed under administrative organization and the name of the school was changed to the Washington College of Engineering, but the location remained the same. At various times throughout all of these years the school at this location was enlarged and improved due to the increase in the study of engineering courses at the school, and due probably to the fact that the school was rated high by other engineering schools. In 1909 the name of this Washington College of Engineering was changed to the College of Engineering and Mechanic Arts. The school functioned under this title until 1914 when, no longer located in the old University Hall, the name was shortened to the College of Engineering. The College of Engineering ran smoothly and without any great change from 1914 to 1928 when the name was again changed, this time to the School of Engineering, which name it still bears. This School of Engineering is located at Twenty-first and H Streets with the other University buildings.

Professor Ames started teaching at George Washington University in 1920 as an Instructor in Electrical Engineering. In 1922 he received a promotion to Assistant Professor and another in 1925 to Associate Professor. The position of Professor and head of the Department of Electrical Engineering was given him in 1929 which he still retains.

He has received degrees from Mississippi A. & M., George Washington University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Harvard in engineering and the degree of Bachelor of Laws from George Washington University. His professional degree of Electrical Engineering was bestowed upon him at George Washington University in 1929.

Professor Ames holds membership in the Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Tau, and Phi Theta Xi fraternities, and in the A. I. E. E.

PROFESSOR NORMAN BRUCE AMES

PROFESSOR ARTHUR FREDERICK JOHNSON

Professor Johnson received his degree in Mechanical Engineering here in 1915. He returned to the University in 1916 to head the Department of Naval Architecture until 1918. He then became associated with the Government in the position of Marine Superintendent of Transport Service. In 1923 he accepted the position of Assistant Professor of Mechanical Engineering, and has passed through the intermediate positions to his present status of Professor and head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

Professor Johnson has received mention in the literary side of Engineering through the publishing of three of his books: "Design and Construction of Power Workboats", "Bibliography and Complete Digest on Wire Rope", and "Descriptive Geometry". He did some extensive work in the field of research on high speed Diesel engines at Langley Laboratory.

He is a member of the Acacia fraternity, A. S. M. E., F. A. A. M., and R. A. M.

Professor Hitchcock became affiliated with the George Washington University in 1926 and has risen since that time to the position of Professor of Civil Engineering and Executive Officer of the Department of Civil Engineering. He received his first degree at Wisconsin University of B.S. in C. E. He then took his Master's degree at Christian Brothers College, where he served in the role of Instructor of Civil Engineering in 1915-16. He took his professional degree at Cornell, where he taught for three years.

Professor Hitchcock held the positions of Assistant, Associate and Engineering Physicist at the Bureau of Standards during the period of years from 1918 to 1926. While in this position he wrote on numerous subjects which had to do with his work.

He is a member of Gamma Alpha, A. S. T. M., and the Washington Society of Engineers. He also holds membership in the Masonic Democratic, and University Clubs.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

We have long since noted the radical changes in the engineering environment at George Washington, but we want to give a general or wholesale statement of the elements which constitute each of our make-ups in our four years of learning to be an engineer of parts.

We oldsters remember the freshman days in the top flight of Lisner Hall, and the annual frosh-soph football scrap, which has since been done to death. We got a big kick out of chalking and rigging up A. F. J's boats, and the erasers flew and cigarettes puffed when Johnny wasn't policing.

We tried hard to find out what an engineer was supposed to do, how to act and what technical words to use. Underneath it all there was a fresh spirit of trying to learn. Most of us worked hard and played hard.

Later there's more work to do, and less time to play. We settle down to the grind, and forget more symbols and formulae than we'll ever see again. The labs swallow up the evenings and afternoons, and we cuss and scorn a mere A. B. with his few hours of lecture.

Gradually there grows a feeling of being a part of a great fraternity—a band of men who work hard and build well or not at all. Freshman enthusiasm changes to hardened purpose. Well guided, we are the builders of advancing civilization—masters of the machine, yet gentlemen.

Somehow, somewhere, we students, freshmen to senior, must find, hold, and be proud of the spirit of the engineering fraternity.

STUDENT SOCIETIES

Compulsory membership in a student organization from which the student will be credited with semester hours included with the general curricula of the Engineering School is one of the major steps to be taken by the Executive Council towards furthering the general scope of the engineering student.

The attitude of the average student of taking only what is required has brought about a condition that must be remedied by the means stated above. The non-member loses the contact with up-to-date happenings in the engineering world brought to the societies by outstanding men in the fields of engineering. He loses a contact with his fellow engineering students which he can make in no other way. He becomes a mere follower of his textbooks, and teachings. His interest in his work cannot attain the heights it should because he is relying on his own observations rather than profiting by the experience of others much more versed in the arts.

May we all look to the day when membership in one of the societies becomes a duly accredited subject in the School of Engineering.

ENGINEERS TO BUILD NEW INSTITUTION

COMBINE RESOURCES FOR BETTER G. W. U.

Structure To Be Finished Some Time Next Year

The George Washington University has finally decided to build a newer and larger university. It will use home talent for the construction work, which will occupy a site stretching from Pennsylvania Avenue to the Potomac river. The building will be ready for occupancy within the next year. (Editors note: Date of writing this scoop unknown.)

It is with great pride that we announce the decision of the officials of the University to use the talent in the School of Engineering (note lesser cost). The following men will report for duty at once for the following assignments:

Wallie Schutt—De boss of de job.

Norm Hawkins—Schutt's yes man.

Reds Davis—Fire for de boss' warmth and well-being.

Tom Vass—Clown for de boss' amusement.

Rey Ask—Brains for de boss.

Bill Poppe—De boss' valet.

Ron Hubbard—Fire for de boss' dinner.

Ray Heimburger—Slave driver for de boss.

G. W. ENGINEERS ENTER SOVIET EMPLOY

DEPRESSION FORCES EXODUS TO SOVIET

Gravedigging Jobs Are Open To Graduates

It has been learned through the underground undersea grapevine route that the U. S. S. R. has consented to employ the entire graduating class of 1932. This sensational disclosure coming right on the heels of the annual announcement of the slaughter of engineers in the employ of the Soviet, has served to buoy the spirits of our boys. In fact, there were numerous cheers, even the Bronx variety, when the magnanimity of the Soviet leaders was bared.

Plans are forthwith being made for the allotment of jobs (sometimes called positions) among the eager graduates or hopefuls.

Chief Lindsey will direct the party, having already shown remarkable leadership, and because of his pure ideals. Tom Baldwin will be second in command, mainly for his ability to team with Lindsey.

Chief Lindsey's orders are for Turner, Staubly, Lyle, Phillips, and Doyle to proceed to the Dead Sea and drown themselves. This paper thinks this is very unusual procedure, but a newspaper is supposed to give the news without comment—but maybe that's what the Reds and Lindsey think of these boys.

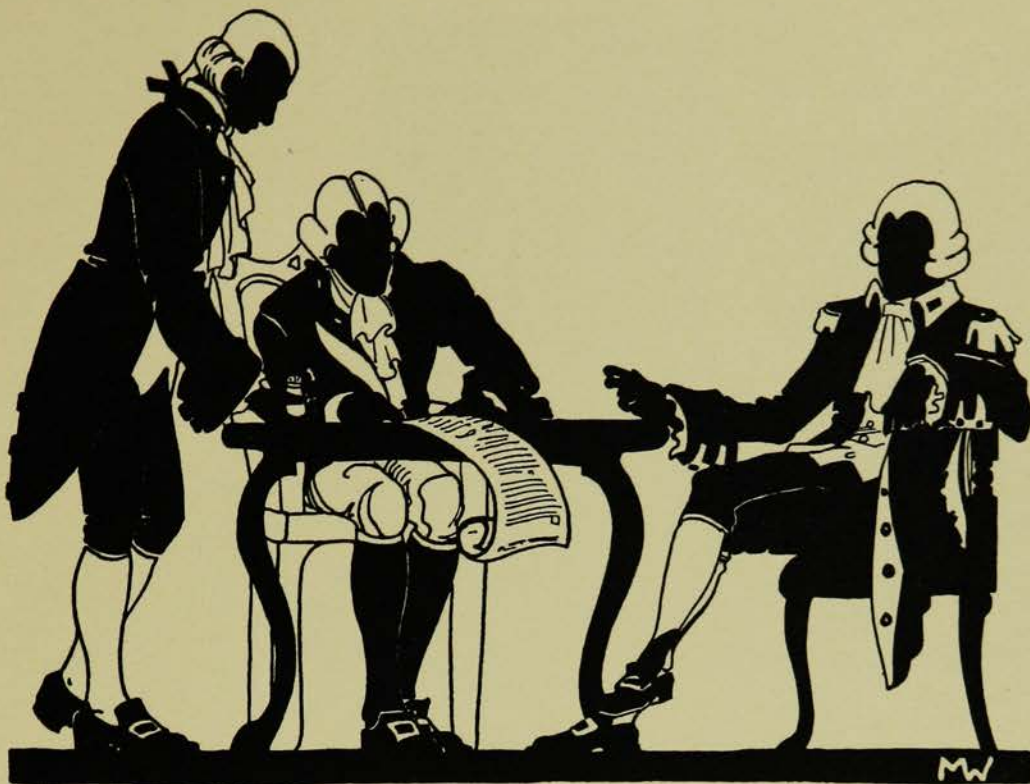

With the depression in full swing, our men will now have proper use for their talent—most of them only rate digging ditches in the United States.

"Let us trust to the influence of Washington's example. Let us hope that that fear of Heaven which expels all other fear, and that regard to duty which transcends all other regard, may influence public men and private citizens, and lead our country still onward in her happy career. Full of these gratifying anticipations and hopes, let us look forward to the end of that century which is now commenced.

"A hundred years hence, other disciples of Washington will celebrate his birth, with no less of sincere admiration than we now commemorate it. When they shall meet, as we now meet, to do themselves and him that honor, so surely as they shall see the blue summits of his native mountains rise in the horizon, so surely as they shall behold the river on whose banks he lived, and on whose banks he rests, still flowing on toward the sea, so surely may they see, as we now see, the Flag of the Union floating on the top of the Capitol; and then, as now, may the sun in its course visit no land more free, more happy, more lovely, than this, our own country!"

DANIEL WEBSTER

Delivered February 22, 1822.

AS WASHINGTON, the soldier, led in the war for Independence, so did Washington, the statesman, lead in framing the Constitution under which he became the first President and in stabilizing the government of the thirteen states. Through his wisdom of action and purity of character, union and a Republic were achieved. More than any other one man he built from chaos a nation and then lavished upon it the most flawless patriotism.

Doctor Warren Reed West, chairman of the Executive Committee of the School of Government, was born in Washington, D. C., on August 27, 1894. He was graduated from the George Washington University in 1918, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1922 from the Johns Hopkins University. Since 1922, he has been on the faculty of the George Washington University, serving as Instructor from 1922 to 1926. In 1926, he was made an Assistant Professor, serving in this capacity until 1929, when he became an Associate Professor.

Doctor West is a member of the American Political Science Association and the American Association of University Professors.

Professor Alva Curtis Wilgus and Professor Dudley Wilson Willard have served on this Executive Committee of the School of Government under Professor West's chairmanship.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

OUR PRESENT School of Government began as the George Washington University School of Jurisprudence and Diplomacy, under which title it existed from 1898 to 1905. In 1905, it became the Department of Politics and Diplomacy, under which title it remained until 1907, when it was changed to the College of Political Sciences. In 1910 it was discontinued as a separate school. The courses were given, however, in Columbian College until September, 1928, when training in foreign service and governmental theory and administration was reestablished as a separate branch under the School of Government.

The reestablishment of the School of Government as a separate division of the University was due to the fact that in December, 1927, the Southern Jurisdiction of the Scottish Rite pledged one million dollars as an endowment for a School of Government. The payment of this million dollar gift was to be distributed over a period of ten years. In addition, the League of Masonic Clubs have undertaken to raise enough funds to establish two chairs in the foreign service division and are now contributing seven thousand dollars a year for this purpose.

It is the purpose of the School of Government to give the student a knowledge of the governmental, economic, and social structure of the country and an understanding of the duties and responsibilities in the conduct of public office, both domestic and foreign. Each of the various curricula attempts to emphasize some phase of this plan.

Among the famous men who were at one time connected with the School of Government are Henry St. George Tucker, David J. Brewer, John W. Foster, David J. Hill, Hannis Taylor, H. Parker Willis, James Brown Scott, W. W. Willoughby, and Howard L. McBain.

Phi Pi Epsilon, Professional Foreign Service Sorority, was founded February 1931, at George Washington University, for the purpose of creating and developing interest among the women of the University in the fields of foreign service and foreign commerce. Those eligible for membership must have completed two years in the University, and must be interested in fields related to the subject of foreign affairs. This field is the last in which women have entered, and, therefore, Phi Pi Epsilon is a pioneer. Contacts have been made with people doing both field and domestic work in foreign service. Plans are being made for national expansion in the near future.

ATHROUGHOUT his life Washington was a man accustomed to the statement of high principles in a lofty manner. Such state papers as the Farewell Address exemplify the force of a law through expression of his greater experience of life and the setting forth of noble aims and purposes. "Let us have a government by which our lives, liberties, and properties shall be secured."

L A W S C H O O L

WILLIAM CABELL VAN VLECK, Dean of the Law School, is a native Washingtonian, having been born here on November 11, 1885. He is a product of the George Washington University, having received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, with distinction, in 1908, and the degree of Bachelor of Laws, with distinction, in 1911. Harvard University conferred the degree of Doctor of Juridical Science on Dean Van Vleck in 1921. He has been connected with the University for twenty years: From 1912 until 1916 he was an Instructor in Law; in 1916 he was made an Assistant Professor and he served in this capacity until 1919; he was Secretary of the Law School from 1912 until 1920; in 1923 he was made an Acting Dean, and has been Dean since 1924.

On February 2, 1932, the Faculty of the Law School passed a resolution recognizing Dean Van Vleck's twentieth year of service to the University. He has represented the University admirably in the legal profession, as representative of the University in the affairs of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association, has guided the school safely through critical periods to a position of sound professional standing, and secured the acceptance of this school for Class A rating by the American Bar Association in September, 1925. Dean Van Vleck has the regard and confidence of his colleagues, the respect of his students, and has shown an admirable balance in his regard for the interests of the faculty, students, and the University.

During the academic years, 1930-1931, Dean Van Vleck was on Sabbatical leave from the University, during which time, he did research work at the Harvard Law School. He is a member of the Committee of Advisors on the Restatement of the Conflict of Laws of the American Law Institute. Dean Van Vleck is a member, too, of the following organizations: American Bar Association, American Law Institute, American Society of International Law, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Delta Phi, Delta Sigma Rho, Order of the Coif.

In March, 1932, a book, "The Administrative Control of Aliens", by Dean Van Vleck, was published by the Commonwealth Fund.

Helen Newman, Secretary and Librarian of the Law School, was born in Washington, D. C., May 23, 1904. She attended the local public schools and was graduated from Western High School in 1922 as valedictorian of her class. As an undergraduate at the University, Miss Newman was particularly active in debate. In 1925, the University conferred upon her the degree of Bachelor of Laws, with distinction; and in 1927, she received the degree of Master of Laws. She was admitted to the bar in 1926. Miss Newman was Assistant Librarian of the Law School from 1923 to 1925. In 1925 she was made Secretary of the Law School and in 1927 she was appointed Law Librarian.

Miss Newman is a member of the American Association of Law Libraries and in 1931 was the official delegate of the University to the annual conference held in New Haven, Connecticut. Following this meeting, she was appointed by the President of the organization as a member of the committee on Regional Co-Operation.

Miss Newman is a member of the Order of the Coif, Chi Omega, Kappa Beta Pi, Delta Sigma Rho, and an honorary member of Sigma Delta Phi.

Miss Newman has won the sincere regard of the student body and the unfailing admiration of the Faculty of the Law School, because of her untiring efforts in the interests of the school and its students.

HISTORY OF THE LAW SCHOOL

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE, the predecessor of the George Washington University, was chartered by Act of Congress and was approved by President James Monroe on February 9, 1821. The law department of the College was organized in 1826, with a two-year course, its first professors being the Hon. William T. Carroll and the Hon. William Crouch. At this time the Rev. Dr. William Staughton was President of the College which was then located on a forty-seven acre tract of land on "College Hill", in the part of Washington now lying between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets, extending from Florida Avenue to Columbia Road. Because of financial difficulties, the Law School was discontinued in 1827.

The Law School was reopened in 1865 and it has been functioning ever since. It is the oldest law school in the District of Columbia. From 1865 until 1884 the School occupied the Columbia Law Building on Fifth Street, N. W., between D and E Streets, the present site of the Office Building. On May 3, 1873, by Act of Congress, Columbian College became Columbian University. At this time there were 103 students in the Law School. In 1877 a course leading to the degree of Master of Laws was added to the curriculum. In 1884 the College proper and the Law School moved to the University Building erected at the corner of Fifteenth and H Streets, N. W., the site now occupied by the Woodward Building. The course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws was increased from two to three years in 1898. Two years later, in 1900, the Law School became one of the charter members of the Association of American Law Schools and has remained a member of the Association since that time. In 1902 Dr. C. W. Needham, of the District of Columbia Bar, and Dean of the Law School, was elected President of the University. It was during his term of office that Columbian University became the George Washington University by Act of Congress passed on January 23, 1904. Admiral Charles H. Stockton, U. S. N., retired, succeeded President Needham in 1910. He served until 1918, and the present Law School Building is named in his honor, Stockton Hall.

The Law School became co-educational in 1911. In 1915 it was moved to the Masonic Temple Building at Thirteenth and H Streets, N. W., and in 1920 the location of the school was changed to 1435 K Street, N. W. On April 13, 1912, what is now the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association was organized. The main purposes of this organization, which counts among its members some of our most illustrious graduates, are to promote high standards of legal education, to keep the alumni of the Law School in touch with one another, and to further the interests of the Law School. This group has done its work well and has awakened the interests of many alumni.

Stockton Hall was dedicated to the use of the Law School on November 14, 1925. Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of the University, presided at the ceremony; Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard Law School delivered the dedicatory address; and the keys of the building were presented to Dean William C. Van Vleck. On the fourth floor of Stockton Hall is the Maury Memorial Library of 14,000 volumes. The law library is dedicated to the memory of Professor William A. Maury, who served on the Faculty from 1877 until 1906. Professor Maury, who died in 1918, was one of the most loved professors of the School. This library is used not only by the students and the faculty, but by the alumni, who find its equipment very helpful.

The Order of the Coif, the national honorary legal society, established a chapter at the Law School in 1926. The Benchers, a prior honorary organization, founded in 1923, formed the nucleus of the new chapter.

The Law School has always borne a high reputation among the law schools of the country. It is approved by the Council of Legal Education of the American Bar Association.

LAW SCHOOL BANQUET

THE Seventeenth Annual Banquet of the Law School, which was given at the Willard Hotel, on Saturday, March 12, was attended by over three hundred students, alumni, and guests. Dean William Cabell Van Vleck was toastmaster and introduced the speakers.

Hon. James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State, was the principal speaker of the evening. He gave a short history of "The Types of American Lawyers." Dr. Rogers is a lawyer himself and is Dean of the University of Colorado Law School, on leave of absence while serving in the State Department, and was thus well qualified to talk on such a subject. President Marvin gave a short sketch of the strides the University has made in the last few years, and congratulated Dean Van Vleck on his twenty years of service for the University and on his splendid achievements for the Law School.

There were thirty seated at the Speakers' Table including the guests of honor, members of the Faculty, and their wives. The University Band played while the guests entered the banquet room and played dinner music during the evening. Professor Hector G. Spaulding led the singing of the Law School songs during and immediately after the dinner. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing and a social get-together in the main ballroom of the Willard Hotel.

The evening was very successful, and shows well the support that Faculty, students, and alumni, give to the social functions of the Law School.

LAW SCHOOL MIXER

IN NOVEMBER 13, 1931, one of the most successful Law School parties of many years was given in Stockton Hall. The Mixer, which was attended by more than three hundred students, was planned so as to combine two features—a reception on the part of the Faculty to the students, and a social dance. President Marvin, Dean and Mrs. Van Vleck, and the members of the Law School Faculty and their wives stood in the reception line throughout the evening and welcomed the guests. A great measure of the success of the evening is due to the Committee on Arrangements composed of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs and a Student Committee. This type of affair has fostered a cordial spirit between the students and the Faculty, and has won the whole-hearted endorsement of the student body.

THROUGHOUT the Revolution Washington fought to keep his army in existence. From Cambridge to Yorktown he suffered with his men, ever manifesting the tenderest sympathies of humanity. His presence in the field was as a magnet that always drew forth whatever fighting spirit remained to his ill-clad, half-starved soldiers. By his leadership and by the confidence his personality inspired, he led his army successfully through every crisis and saved his country.

CLASS HISTORY

*"Half a league; half a league
Half a league onward
All in the Valley of Death
Rode the Six Hundred."*

Only it wasn't for half a league; it was for four years. And it wasn't the Valley of Death; it was G. W. Med. School, and there were not Six Hundred. There were only ninety-six! But they wanted to be doctors so they were willing to try anything. "Was there a man dismayed?" I'll say there was! All of them were in a complete fog.

*Quizes to the right of them
Quizes to the left of them
Quizes in front of them
Written and oral.*

*Storm'd at with bones they fell
Boldly they strove and well
Into the jaws of Death
Into the mouth of Pob Jenkins.
Went the Ninety-six.*

But they managed to take time out to elect class officers:—Bob Boswell as President; McClean, Vice-President; and Douglas, Secretary-treasurer.

Of course, much went on that wasn't strictly in a medical line, for Schiffer corresponded in Histology with nurses and almost met one in Franklin Park; "Crain did it" became the motto of the chemistry laboratory explosions; while Klesner rivalled Will Rogers and Chic Sale for his wit. Much flesh and many snow balls flew around the anatomy lab to the blatant if not musical accompaniment of the rivet drivers putting a tower on the church across the street. The year ended with Doctor Jenkins playing various and sundry tricks on many of his fraternity brothers as well as numerous others in the class.

The Sophomore year rolled around and seventy-four courageous youths graduated from the front room to the back salon of sky-heaven only to find Oscar Benwood "dipping nets down in the sea and not finding any fish." It was here that the class learned that one hundred units of toxin plus one hundred units of toxoid combined to form about five thousand units of the great crux of the situation in Erlich's side chain theory.

Somewhere between the pyramidal tract of the thalamus and tonic contractions of a frog's muscle suspended in Digitalis, "Buster" Barr "railroaded" the same officers through before the AKK's had time to get organized.

Mangold gained fame for always getting the first seat in "Browner's row." Kennedy, Klesner, Blanks, Nelson, Smith and Schaffer formed the "Old Oaken Bucket" sextette which serenaded the class to sleep when professors were absent—which was not often. Baker rode the electrical bicycle for the benefit of science; Beacher related his adventure in his trip to Bagdad, while Stubbs joined Dr. Moss in trying to probe the I. Q.'s of a lot of degenerates who felt capable of entering Med. School. Probably the most notable event was Amster's search for the Pharmacopoeia.

The Junior class numbered sixty-two hence the AKK's came to life pledging all who weren't on guard and thus carrying the elections. Kennedy, Amster and Klesner assumed the burden and proved that one side is just as good as the other. Barr demonstrated that an M. D. is a good rifle shot when he won the Individual Intercollegiate Championship. Edmonston and Crain plus one dead "moke" made a ninety-nine yard dash, but unfortunately were stopped just in front of the goal by ol' John Law.

Another summer passed and with the gathering for the finale, there assembled for these final elections fifty-eight Seniors. Boswell returned as president, to be assisted by Weinstein and Crain. Among the items of importance to the class were bowling, golfing, nurse-chasing, and watching the new Research Center grow up overnight like a mushroom.

Of course, classes and clinics were held in the interim and during this period some one might chance to attend, but after all, a Senior is a Senior.

Richtmeyer, Glover and Blank took charge of the University Hospital; Olson ran Emergency; Jackson showed the way at T. B.; and Bleacher cleaned test tubes for Garfield, while the rest played "Peep a boo" at the other "pain chambers."

Spring at last, praise be to Allah, when the much desired sleep was consumed even in class and various methods of procedure were advanced for cutting clinics. But

*When can their glory fade?
O, the wild diagnoses made.
All the world wonder'd
For not many blundered
Thus honor the bull they shot
To honor that class so hot—
Noble Fifty-eight.*

THE THREE GRACES OF '32

*Here's a pretty howdy do!
To know of the Graces, which is who!
In all the virtues each Grace stands tall,
Faith, Hope, and Charity—they're all in ALL!*

*They've FAITH in themselves—Faith in each other,
Faith in every dear class brother? ? ?
Faith in the patient, Faith in the nurses! ! !
Faith that fair fees will fill their purses.*

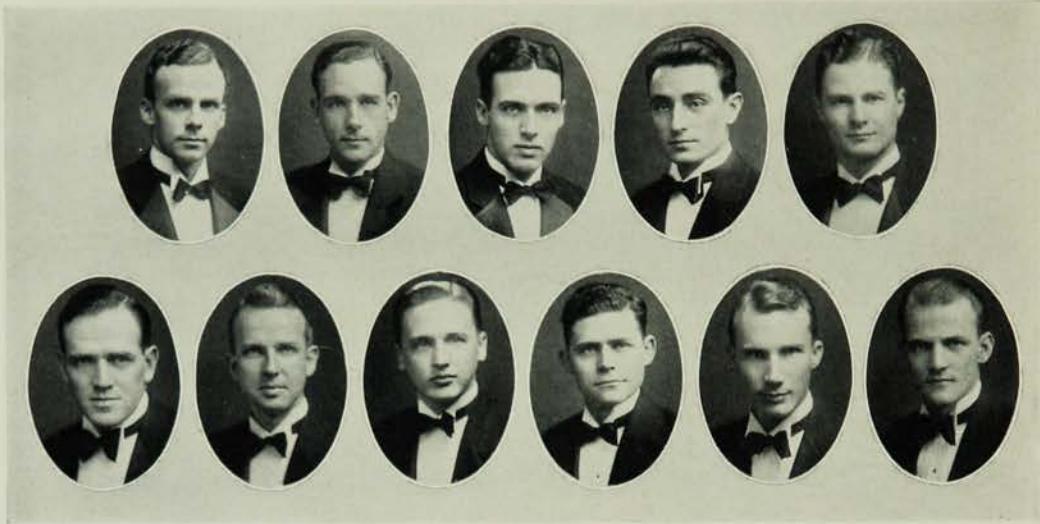

*They've HOPE they can always tame the B. P.
And banish Bacilli that broadcast Tb.
That they'll read aright the signs of the sinus,
By no rash 'ectomy make organs minus!*

*They've CHARITY—"suffered long" is right!
[See "Whispering Willie", "Joe Critique", "The Old Man", "Dynamite",
The "microbe Hunter", "Read-it Halley", "Nervey Shugrue",
And "Who's Who" White (the both of the two).]*

*Now we've scarce touched the roster, but just "Ask Dr. Foster".
He'll grant that our Graces Three
Have suffered long for the Facultie
Have been put many times thro' the Third Degree
To prove whether they knew their Q's and P.
They did! so three cheers for each new M. D.!!*

THE George Washington University Medical Society was organized in 1906, with a membership limited to graduates of the Medical School and members of the Faculty. The purpose of the society is to provide opportunities for its members to participate in discussions of problems relating to their profession; to read papers on original scientific work; and to promote unity and friendly intercourse among graduates. Students of the Senior Class are invited to the meetings, and are eligible to present papers at one meeting. Additional interest is stimulated by frequent invitations of guest speakers prominent in their fields. At the annual banquets the guest speakers are chosen from those enjoying international recognition in their fields. Among the prominent speakers this year were Dr. Carl Spiedel and Dr. E. Starr Judd, the guest speakers of the banquet.

CLASS PROPHECY

Scene.....THE PEARLY GATES

Time.....1992

Characters.....ST. PETER, The Prophet

OWD'Y ole' fellow and how are you today? I say, is that old trouble still bothering you?

Oh, 'tis you, Doc Edmonston—

Not bad, why, I'm even known up here. Well, after all, why not, I—

Sorry old chap, but I fear you have me wrong, for I have never heard of you, but you must be the missing one from the Med. Class of '32 at G. W.

So I am the last of the infamous congregation "to check in?" Truly, there must be something in this habit of being late. But tell me, Petie, ole' bean, your knowledge in regards to the escapades of my companions in crime must be plentiful, so what say to dish out the dirt?

Doc, do you remember Adler, the renowned Rhinologist? What a doctor! He began specializing before he entered medical school. "Skeeter" Barr, the G. Y. N. of note and his associates Ball and Strawbridge, came through with a bang, when his R. R. H. Barr tossed a box of vigorous forty-fives in the fireplace, by mistake 'tis quoted. Blakistone came to a sudden end also, for he was found dead the day after they abolished the School of Nursing at Gallinger Hospital. Believe it or not, but Stubbs advocated the "lighter than air theory" when he went through the roof of G. W.'s Research Center in one of his experiments for Doc Moss (i. e., it came out as Fred A. thought it would). Moreover, did you know that Fleck and Glover entered not long ago still arguing as to the cause of their demise? What diagnostic twins they were! One was always right, and never both of them. Then there was Amster, the surgeon. He had a sudden end, for surely enough he tried to explain a perplexing problem with a scalpel in his hand, hence cut his own throat, while Lucky Moe Dick, the lung man, turned croupier at Monte Carlo.

Your friend Crain had an interesting career. Did you know that he gave the cannibals indigestion, but that was a good idea of his of extending the dear ole' C. E. Speaking of the effects of the tropics, the Mejia and Troche combination had Yaws well in hand during their earthly sojourn.

Yes, and Klesner was widely known for his illustrations in his treatise on "The Travels of a Wandering Cell in Kalamazoo." Unfortunately for him he said,

"Oh, yeah?" to a gangster. Another rumpus resulted when Kennedy discovered a reducing vitamin that made him a favorite of every fat woman in America.

Poor Conway, you probably questioned his hasty exit when he kicked off with lead poisoning after greeting the "hubby" who didn't understand that he was only doing a physical. Bill was a great "hombre" though he asked me many questions, he was the first to shake my hand in five hundred years.

Another fellow in that class I can't forget, is Steinman, whom I caught chipping one of the Pearly Gates. You remember Hoffman, the pediatrician? He slid to home plate when he caught those elevating heels en route to meet the stork and grab a new case. That reminds me of another New Yorker, Harry Schiffer, the anesthetist, who gave a patient ether and then proceeded to get himself some Rhinitis pills. It was surely tough for Harry, for truly he couldn't make the bereaved widow!

Radical Di Gorio, the G. U. man whose credentials claimed his ancestors came over on the Mayflower, denied the fruit business, but the story goes that bananas were his big line.

A few years back, your class president requested admittance only to try and arrange for a Judgment Day. That habit of arranging dates for exams must be a perpetual habit.

The surgeon Blank, though the worldly wise said, "Quack", was much concerned as to whether or not Beecher had met success with his sale of Libido Candy among his O. B. patients. It has been rumored that Stan Gordon might have used the product to keep from sleeping, however, he fell off the ambulance. The pavements in Washington didn't prove soft!

As for the rest, St. Peter, where are they?

To satisfy your curiosity you may join "hot cha" Ball, the lady and liquor killer, who is keeping smouldering company with the rest of the class o' '32.

MISS CHAMBERLAIN
Assistant Superintendent of Nurses

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

HE years roll on and the time flies by—yet how many of us realize that as the Bi-Centennial, commemorating the birthday of George Washington, is being escorted into sight, the School of Nursing is being ushered out?

This School, which has borne so great a name since 1903, when by virtue of the Act of Congress approved January 23, 1904 the name was changed from Columbian College to George Washington University, was at first unrecognized and from November, 1898, until February, 1903, the work was carried on by nurses from Children's and Columbia Hospitals. The need for a larger hospital with its own nurses became so prominent that on February 28, 1903, a new and enlarged hospital was formally opened, with dedicatory ceremonies such that the man, whose name it bears, would be justly honored. It was on that day that the School for Nurses was inaugurated.

As George Washington had to strive to gain his goal, so our School fought for recognition, not only at home but among the leading schools of our country. We have been small in size, but because of our adequate instruction and facilities, we are now not unknown.

There now remain seventeen students and when, under Mrs. Gibson's guidance, our present Superintendent of Nurses, our course is finished, the George Washington School for Nurses will be ended, but to us it will only be the beginning. As George Washington tried to plant his ideals in the hearts of his countrymen, so shall we try to carry out the principles and ideals which have been impressed upon us by the University which so proudly bears his name.

CLASS POEM

It was in September '29
Twenty-one girls fell in line
With hearts full of joy and cheer
To begin a new career.

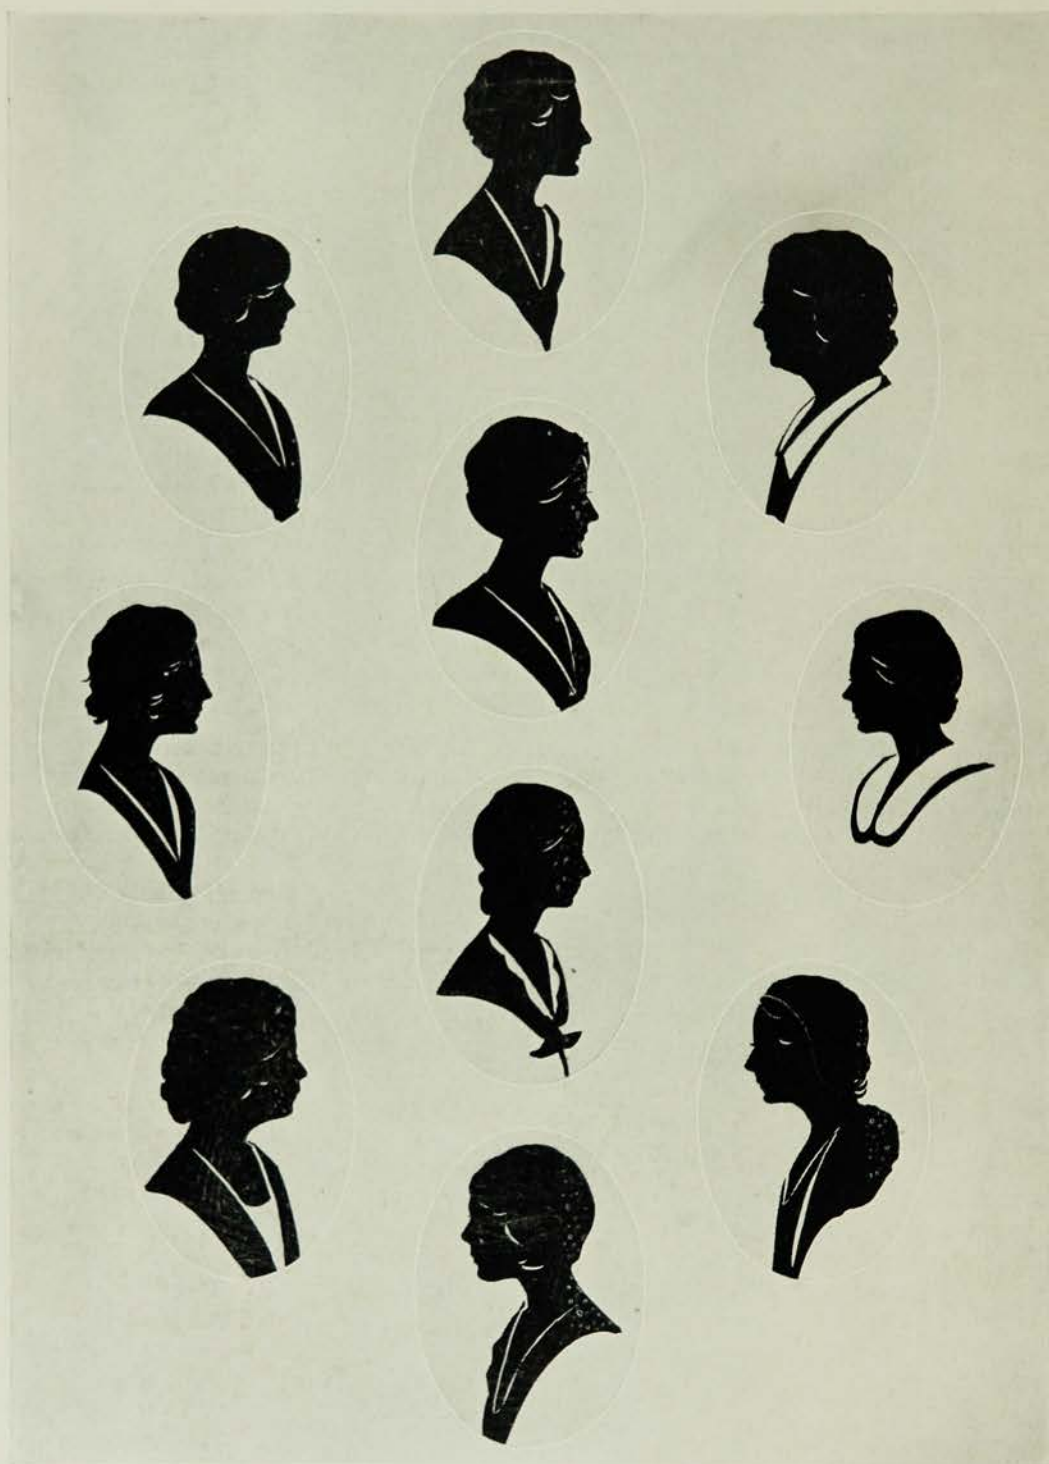

Due to all the various things
Some have fallen from the ring
But those of us, who have stuck
Feel that we are much in luck.

Altho' we get many a kick
The best goes to those who stick
So we are striving hard to lessen
The woes and cares of our profession.

Now that we must all depart
Our new profession we will start
To give our best with love and cheer
And only think of our new career.

Of you G. W. we will always think,
And here's a toast to you we'll drink.
Our thoughts and joys of the past
Like pyramids, with us they'll last.

ESSIE C. BAREFOOT.

AN EVENTFUL DAY—AUG. 21, 1935

S I, "LIB" BURNS, was breakfasting alone, having just hustled Dan to his office, I received a letter from Essie. What a letter! She told me that Dr. Larry was doing some experiments with monkeys which would soon lead him on the road to fame. She also tells me that Polly and Wiley are spending their vacation with them and that they are going to celebrate Craumer's degree of bachelorhood which she has just received, since she prefers to be Superintendent of Nurses at the Panama City Hospital instead of joining either the Army or Navy.

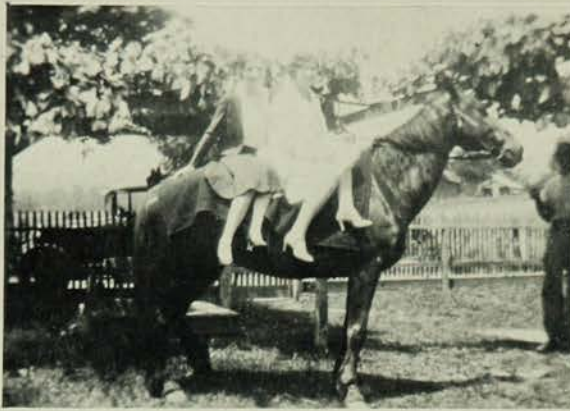

Having read the letter, I was about to go to work, when I received a telephone call. Who should it be but Gladys! She was on her way from a Medical Convention in Alexandria, Va., where her husband presided. She decided to spend the day with me and we managed a luncheon engagement with Julia and Hutton who are on a short leave from their Indian Reservation positions. We were enjoying ourselves immensely when in breezed Dinty. She told us that she did not like the attitude that the people had toward nurses in Reno; so having seen Lanie and Pat safely in the court room, she was going to try to have her "Elgin" exchanged.

We were returning home and found "Chris" ringing the doorbell. She had just come in from St. Elizabeth's, where she is supervising "Q" Building. She told us that she met "Greenie" and Ellison in the Five and Dime Store. They were doing General Duty at George Washington and were trying to do a little shopping between hours on duty.

The three of us then went to the movies. In the Pathe News we saw an account of Nash and Jenkins who have been devoting their time to Improvements in the Child Welfare Work in Detroit. On our way from the movies we met Nellie T. and Kathleen Goolsby. Nellie is Supervisor of the Obstetrical Ward at the University of Virginia Hospital and Kathleen is Night Supervisor at Children's Hospital.

We found time to call upon Ted and George and they invited us to stay for dinner, which we enjoyed very much. Ted then opened "the trunk" which brought back memories of the days we spent in George Washington University Hospital. As we were about to close the trunk a poem caught my eye and this is what it said:

*How often we thought in the days gone by
Of the things we could do, if we would only try,
What fear we now in the days to come
The things we must do—stand and not run.
And when success at last we gain
To G. W. U. we will turn again.
And memories that have long flitted past
We realize will always last,
We will praise G. W. U. H. ere time flies
Love, cherish and honor her, with our lives.*

AT FREDERICKSBURG, Virginia, is the Hugh Mercer Apothecary shop, where George Washington, who was a friend of Dr. Mercer, spent many hours, and in one room of which he transacted much business that had to do with his plantation along the Rappahannock River. Later Dr. Mercer became one of Washington's staff and was killed while leading an attack against the British at Princeton, New Jersey.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

THE YEAR 1931-32 marked another step towards the consummation of an ideal, envisaged by the present Dean, William Paul Briggs, in adding another desirable and long sought for unit, to the School of Pharmacy. This enlargement of the Pharmacognosy and Pharmacology Departments was partly made possible through the foresight and constructive efforts of the preceeding class and partly through the efficient efforts of Dean Briggs.

This year, Mr. Raymond S. Smith, a native of Oklahoma and a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, was added to the staff of full time faculty members. To him were assigned the classes in the Pharmacognosy and Pharmacology Departments.

Mr. John Lee, of Missouri, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and the University of Valparaiso, was brought here to assume the post recently left vacant by Mr. Ewald Witt.

The present School of Pharmacy, now an integral part of the George Washington University, boasts of an enviable record. The school, first conceived by the Apothecaries' Association of the District of Columbia, was granted a Charter by the Congress of the United States in April, 1871. On November 11, 1872, the school, known as "The National College of Pharmacy of Washington, D. C.," opened its doors for the benefit of all desiring to enter.

Dr. William S. Thompson was the first President of the school, his term of office running from 1872 to '74. Following him were sixteen other men, the last being Dr. Henry E. Kalusowski, in 1903 till the time of his death in 1926.

In 1906, the National College of Pharmacy became affiliated with the George Washington University and became a part of this educational center. Upon the death of Dr. Kalusowski, there was a general decline in the school's attendance, from which the school never recovered until the year 1927, when the present Dean Briggs revived the school and brought it back to its now normal condition.

The school has now changed from its present three-year plan, this year being the last, to a four-year plan and all indications now point to a larger and better school. Under the able direction of Dean Briggs, we are assured of this prediction coming true.

HISTORY OF THE SECOND YEAR CLASS

WHEN the class of '33 returned to the School of Pharmacy last fall, we elected new officers for the coming year. Benjamin Goldman was elected the representative of the class, to the "Dean's Council," to iron out any unusual difficulties which might arise between the faculty and the students. The officers of the class are Benjamin Goldman, President; Nick Cris Koutsoukas, Vice-President; Milton Butler, Secretary; and James Edmondson, Treasurer.

In the spring, when intramural baseball came to the fore, this class took the lead in bringing the school through a very successful season. Sidney Nathanson was elected manager, while Milton Butler, was elected assistant manager. Both of these men are from the second year class. It was mainly through the endeavors of these two men and the able direction of the captain, that the season has ended so gloriously for the school.

With two years behind us and only one left in our college career, we are beginning to feel the vast responsibility that will be thrust upon us as professional men, and are striving for our goal, "scientific perfection."

Standing—Latona, Bray, Read, Ginsburg, Fensahrens, Epstein, Benedetti.
Sitting—Emmart, Lamb, Rubin.

HISTORY OF THE FIRST YEAR CLASS

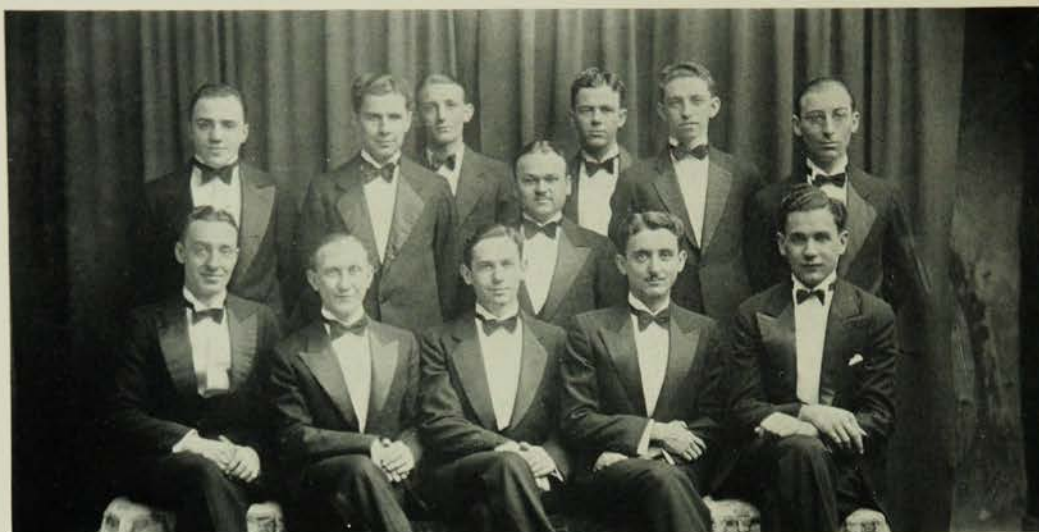

WE, THE Class of '34, are the last to be registered in the School of Pharmacy under the three-year plan. Upon our first appearance at the School, we were stunned at the great number of subjects to be thrust upon us. Now at the end of our first year, we look backwards in pride and amazement, that we have gone through this first year so generally successful.

Early in the fall, customary to practice, the class organized and elected officers. Those elected were: Lewis Joseph Lamb, President; George Allen Emmart, Vice-President; Phillip Rubin, Secretary; Ellsworth Bray, Treasurer.

The students in the School of Pharmacy benefit through a unique plan of student representation in a body known as the "Dean's Council." Each class sends a representative, the Faculty being represented by Dean Briggs, and it is here that difficulties between the Faculty and the students, if any occur, are straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned. It is also the privilege of the students to make any suggestions, which in their opinion will benefit the School. Salvator Latona was elected as the class representative to this body. By this time we began to feel as though we were a definite part of the School.

Now we began to get down to some really serious studying. At last the first semester was finished and we were off on our last lap of our first year in the University. If we are as successful in the succeeding years as in this, never shall we have any regrets. Our only thoughts at present are of attaining the ideals and technique of Pharmacy, as has been done by the many classes before us.

Standing—Schreudin, Edmondson, Fuesahrens, Emmart, Sinclair, Nathanson, Goldman.
Sitting—Latona, Smyser, Locks, Losa, Popluder

MORTAR AND PESTLE SOCIETY

WHEN THE present senior class advanced to the position it now holds, several of the members conceived the idea of establishing in the School of Pharmacy an organization to foster and encourage the principles of Pharmacy. With this thought in mind a group of eleven men were chosen around which the nucleus was formed.

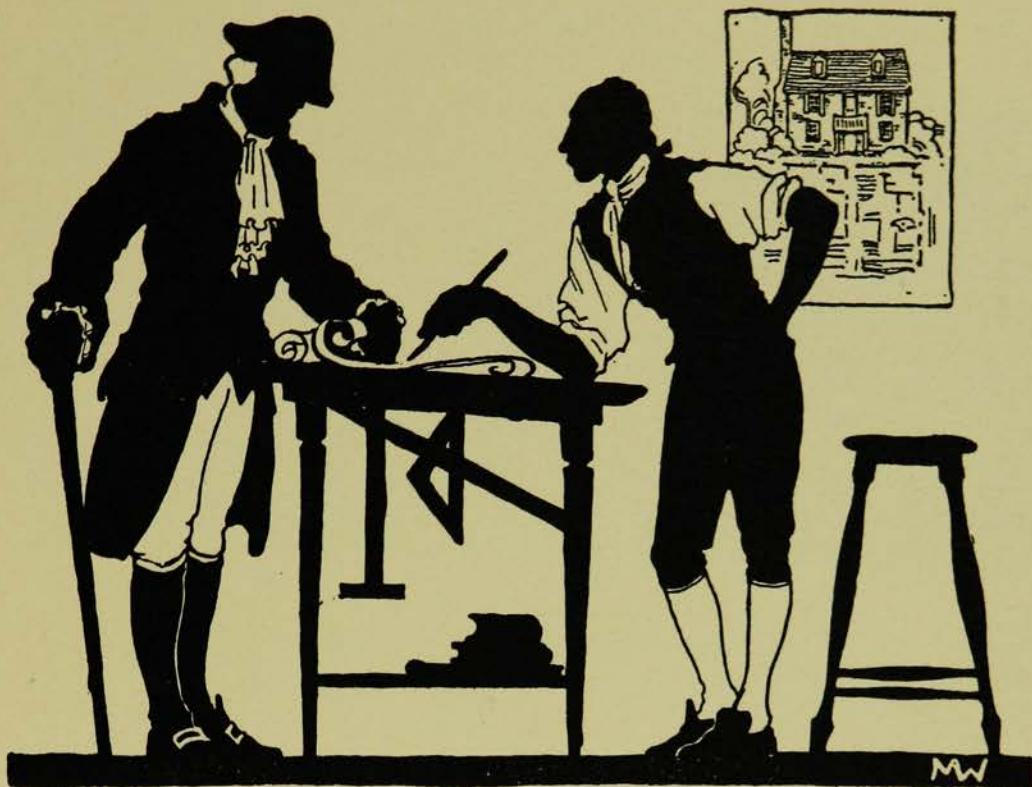

This body of students chose for the organization the title of "Mortar and Pestle Society." A constitution was adopted and the following persons were elected to office: Herbert Socks, President; Edward A. Smyser, Vice-President; Milton Butler, Secretary; Gabriel Sosa, Treasurer; and Chester Chamberlain, Social Secretary.

Pins in the shape of R, with the symbol of the mortar and pestle embossed upon them were chosen.

During the second semester, seven new men were added to the list of active members. The second semester will also witness a series of speeches delivered by the most prominent people in the pharmaceutical world. A dance open to the students of the Pharmacy School has been one of the events held, with a luncheon for the new members and a banquet to round out the season. The proceeds from a successful turkey raffle made possible the interesting smokers at which varied entertainment was received with great enthusiasm.

One of the most conspicuous achievements of the "Mortar and Pestle Society" this season has been the recognition it has received from the University—the first organization in this School to be so recognized.

With this record during the past year, the "Mortar and Pestle Society" stands well on the road to success and many achievements are expected of it in the future.

DURING the last ten years of his life George Washington was intimately connected with the founding of the National Capital. He chose a picturesque spot just below the old village of Georgetown, Maryland, for the city, entrusting its detailed planning to a gifted Frenchman, Pierre Charles L'Enfant, who directed the construction of what was eventually to become one of the most inspiring cities in the world.

THE DIVISION OF FINE ARTS

NORRIS INGERSOLL CRANDALL

Director of the Division of Fine Arts.

B. Arch., Cornell University, 1914

M. Arch., Cornell University, 1915.

Professor of Architecture since 1923.

Professor of Architecture, Head of Architecture Department, Consultant of Porto Rico Capital Building, San Juan, Porto Rico, 1922-1923.

Gargoyle, architectural society; Savage Club of Cornell; Association of University Professors, American Institute of Architects; Scarab Fraternity; Cornell Fellowship in Architecture.

THE PURPOSE of the Department of Architecture is to give the student a knowledge of, and make him proficient in, the fundamental work involved in the design and construction of buildings. The creative work is most important for the professional architect, and to this end the training in expression and design in the graphic arts is especially stressed. The other work necessary for the complete academic preparation of the student to practice as a professional architect complements the creative work in the Architecture course. For those who find themselves more adapted to the actual construction or administration of buildings, courses in Business Administration and Surveying are substituted for the Architectural Design courses and Graphic Art work.

The purpose of the Department of Art is to give the student a knowledge and appreciation of the fine arts, and to enable him to acquire a proficiency in expression through the different mediums used in the graphic arts. For those who find themselves more interested in the history and criticism of art than in expression through the graphic arts, courses in Architecture, Anthropology, etc., are substituted for the Graphic Art work. For those who expect to major in Illustration, extended work in this field is offered.

HISTORY OF THE DIVISION OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

IN 1920 Dr. Schmidt began giving a number of courses in Library Science. These were increased until in 1928 the Division of Library Science was created with Dr. Schmidt as Acting Director.

The courses in Library Science are designed to give students professional training that will prepare them to enter upon active Library service. A two-year upper-division curriculum in combination with the required Junior College work, leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Library Science.

A librarian must have, in addition to executive training, scholarly attainments based on deep cultural interests and sympathies. He should be trained in modern languages, and in history, sociology, literature, and science. The curriculum, as outlined, combines these features with the technical subjects.

"Washington was neither an accident nor a miracle. Neither chance nor a special Providence need be assumed to account for him. It was God, indeed, who gave him to us; but God had been preparing him ever since English constitutional history began. He was of the same breed with Hampden and Pym and Cromwell. Burke and Chatham both recognized him as a brother so soon as they saw opened before them the credentials of his deeds. He was of such heroic stuff as God had for centuries been so graciously and so lavishly weaving into the character of the race."

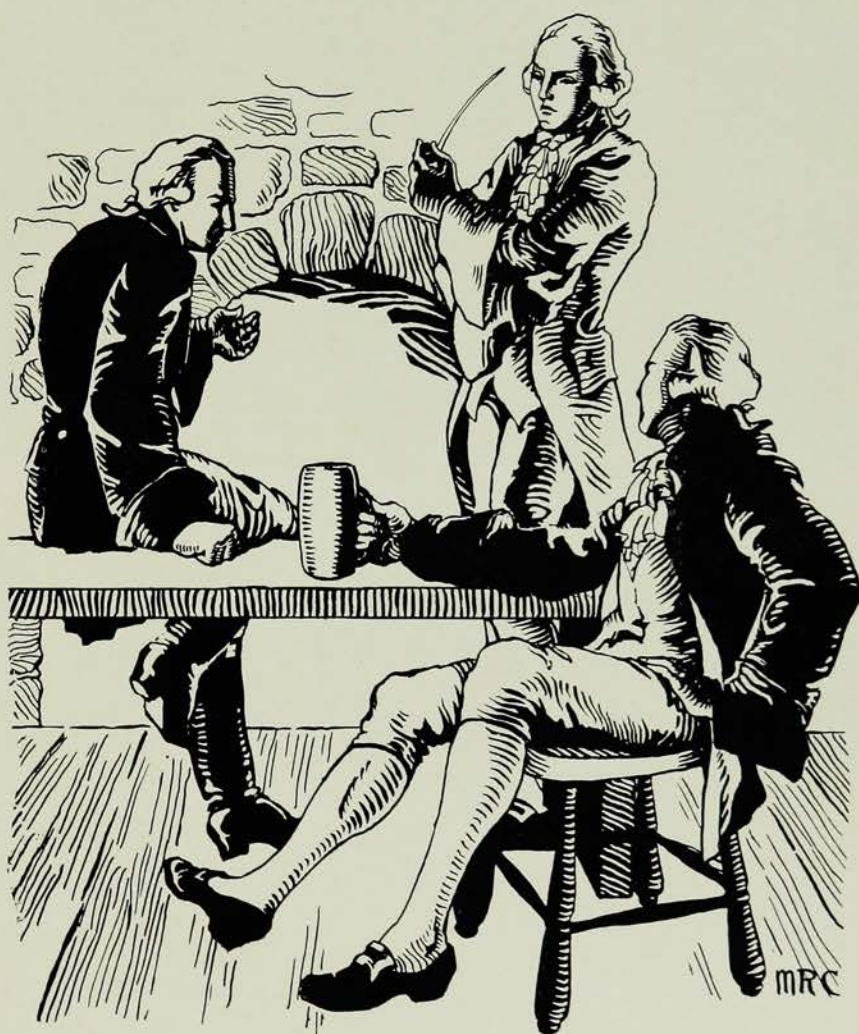

WOODROW WILSON.

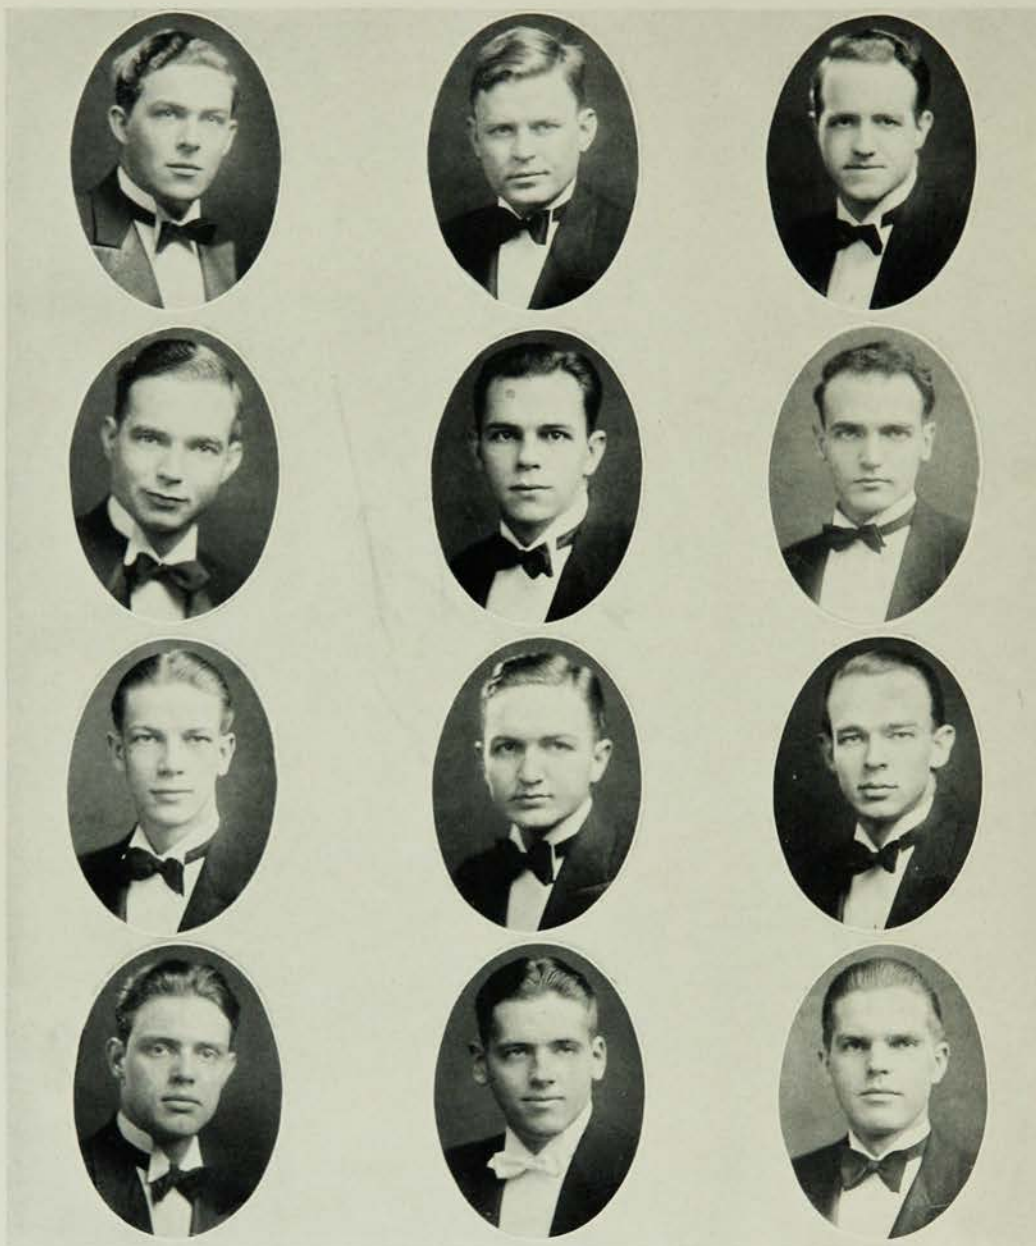

WASHINGTON was a leader of men. He was able to accomplish this because he did his plain duty without embellishments and boasting, and through sincere friendship with a limited group of his fellow countrymen. "Be courteous to all, but intimate with few; and let those few be well tried before you give them your confidence." Washington maintained that in true friendship there must be a congeniality of temper and pursuits.

"I have seen him in the days of adversity, in some of the scenes of his deepest distress and most trying perplexities; I have also attended him in his highest elevation and most prosperous felicity; with uniform admiration of his wisdom, moderation, and constancy. . . . Malice could never blast his honour, and envy made him a singular exception to her universal rule. For himself he had lived enough, to life and to glory. For his fellow-citizens, if their prayers could have been answered, he would have been immortal. For me, his departure is at a most unfortunate moment. . . . His example is now complete, and it will teach wisdom and virtue to magistrates, citizens, and men, not only in the present age, but in future generations, as long as our history shall be read."

"Born to high destinies, he was fashioned for them by the hand of nature. His form was noble—his port majestic. On his front were enthroned the virtues which exalt, and those which adorn the human character. So dignified his deportment, no man could approach him but with respect—none was great in his presence. His judgment was always clear, because his mind was pure. And seldom, if ever, will a sound understanding be met in the company of a corrupt heart. . . . In him were the courage, of a soldier, the intrepidity of a chief, the fortitude of a hero."

EX-MINISTER GOUVERNEUR MORRIS.

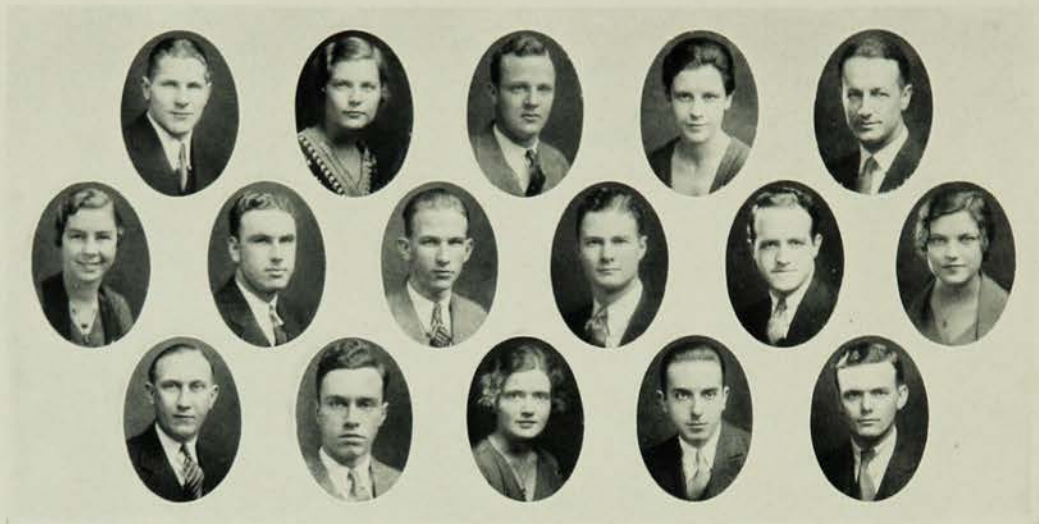

WASHINGTON was by nature a social man, interested in cultured life and its activities. As a sportsman, a gentleman, a cavalier, and an aristocrat, he shared in all affairs. Because of this he remained human beneath the required dignity of State. In participating unreservedly in all things, he was the more honored and loved by his people.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

IT is the earnest hope of the alumni officers that members of the Classes of 1932 may maintain a close and lasting association with their Alma Mater, individually and through the alumni organizations.

The George Washington University alumni organizations are the channels which give direction to that continuing interest in University affairs which should be a part of the heritage of every graduate.

Regional clubs in cities throughout the country keep alive the spirit of the University among alumni who are remote. If you are leaving Washington to take up your work elsewhere, you should make contact with the George Washington Alumni Club in the city where you locate.

Professional Groups—Law, Medicine, Education—foster friendship, cooperation and progress among graduates whose life work is in the same field.

The General Alumni Association coordinates these various forces and promotes alumni objectives which are common to the University as a whole and to its entire alumni body.

Your graduation from the University makes you a member of the General Alumni Association. Your life work allocates you to a professional group. Your place of residence gives you membership in a regional club. These are three fields of alumni interest and activity in which every graduate should take a part.

THE OBJECTS of this organization are the advancement of women by the founding of scholarships for women in the various departments of the University, the promotion of acquaintanceship among its members and the promotion of the interests of the University in every way.

Any woman who has been a regularly registered student in the University for one year; who is a member of the Faculties, Council, or Board of Trustees; who is on the Administrative Staff; who holds an honorary degree from the University, or is the wife or head of the household of any member of the Faculties, Council, Board of Trustees, or the Administrative Staff, is eligible to membership.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY BAND

LESTER RENNINGER

THE student band with its members resplendent in their elaborately embellished Colonial style uniforms made its debut at the Thanksgiving Day football game when the Colonials encountered the University of North Dakota aggregation.

It was organized under the auspices of the Student Council with Theodore Rinehart efficiently promoting the organization work and handling the finances. Louis Malkus, formerly of the University of Oklahoma, was chosen as Director, and much credit is due him in rapidly developing the student musicians into an organized band. Lester Renninger of the University of Southern California took charge of the Drum Major's duties and ably swung the baton to lead the musicians.

THE Newman Club is an organization of Catholic students of the George Washington University. It was founded in the spring of 1925 as an authorized center for the religious, intellectual and social life of members of the Catholic Faith attending the University. From a nucleus of nine members, the Club has become one of the most active organizations at George Washington, having an active membership of over one hundred and fifty students. One of the chief aims of the Newman Club is complete cooperation with the school authorities in advancing the welfare and standards of the University. Each year an elaborate social program of dances, luncheons, card parties, etc., culminating in the Newman Prom, is sponsored by the Club. The meetings of the Club are addressed by some of the most outstanding speakers of Washington. The Newman Club is an accredited member of the National Federation of College Catholic Clubs. Club publications are the semi-monthly Newman bulletin and the annual satirical sheet, "The New Maniac."

The Middle Atlantic States Province of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs held its annual Spring Convention in Washington, D. C., on April 29, 30 and May 1, 1932, under the auspices of the George Washington Newman Club.

THE LUTHER CLUB

HE LUTHER CLUB is an organization, the membership of which is limited to Lutheran students and members of the Faculty, and others interested in the Lutheran Church, enrolled in the University. The purpose of the organization is three-fold: namely, to increase social contact among Lutheran students; to join more closely the University Lutherans with the Lutheran Churches in Washington; and to further religious life on the campus. In addition to its monthly meetings, the Luther Club sponsors Sunday afternoon discussion groups, which are led by well-known speakers.

At the close of each year a book on modern poetry is presented by the Club to the University Library.

THE Colonial Campus Club, formed in the spring of 1931 brought together a group of girls, socially unaffiliated, but keenly alive to the necessity for association of these girls. With the goal of establishing a feeling of friendliness and goodwill and of enabling each girl to participate in campus activities, the work of the organization has gone forward rapidly.

It is the hope of the Club that as the enrollment becomes larger the members shall be divided into different interest groups and that very non-sorority girl on the George Washington University campus will find a place in one of these. For the past year, which has been mainly an experimental one, the organization has confined itself to social and athletic groups. The Club holds meetings every two weeks and various social events are sponsored throughout the year.

The aim of the Colonial Campus Club is to build stronger friendships from which will come happiness to be remembered through all one's days at George Washington University.

ORCHESIS, one of the newer clubs on the campus, has as its purpose the development and practice of interpretive dancing. Organized in the spring of 1931 as a dancing group, the Club is now one of the many Orchesis groups throughout the country. Its first year has been an active one and several very interesting programs have been presented by the dancers. Among these, the Nativity Pageant, given at Christmas time, assisted by the two Glee Clubs of the University, is outstanding. Orchesis has also given short programs at some of the W. A. A. banquets and taken a leading part in the Spring Dance Recital. Having weathered the hardships of first year existence, this small but interested group of women, under the able guidance of Miss Ruth Aubeck, Faculty Advisor, looks forward to ensuing years with hope and confidence.

DOUGLAS BEMENT, Assistant Professor of English and Chairman of the Publications Council, is an authority on the short story, having only recently published a text book on this subject which has met with wide approval. Through his contact with the publications he has made many friends among the student journalists.

Henry William Herzog, Graduate Manager of Publications, has, during the short period that he has held this position, justified his popular appointment. His experience gained during his undergraduate days as business manager of the Cherry Tree and Handbook and his service on the Hatchet makes him particularly well fitted for this position.

Audley Lawrence Smith, Assistant Professor of English and a Faculty member of the Council, served for many years as the Faculty Advisor of the CHERRY TREE.

Marcelle Le Menager, Alumni Secretary of the University, is also an alumni member of the Council. During her undergraduate days she served on the Hatchet in the capacity of an associate editor.

Robert C. Starr, Business Manager of the University Hospital and an alumni member of the Council has had a great deal of experience in newspaper work. He is well remembered as a past editor of the University Hatchet and after his graduation served in the capacity of editor for several trade organs.

F. Winfield Weitzel, the student member, is the editor of the University Hatchet as well as president of Pi Delta Epsilon.

DRAMATICS

HAPPY LANDINGS

"HAPPY LANDINGS, Happy Landings, Happy Landings, to you"—while we sail on to the tune of Troubadours very own orchestra. Ralph Kennedy and John Redmond succeeded in showing the public how we skim the clouds during our college days, how we soft-soap profs, both young and old, and how partial we have become to practical learning. Though the book concerned an aviation school, co-ed, of course, with ground and solo instruction, emphasis was placed on specialty numbers, making the show more a review than a musical comedy. The choruses tapped their way into the pulse of the audience, the fashion review appealed to our sartorial sense, and our humor was appeased by the antics of Mildred Burnham, veteran performer of the organization, Joe Danzansky, and Grant Van Demark, newcomers into the comedy arena.

To the leads goes the credit of holding the show together. Ruth Molyneaux, Louise Berryman, Dolph Atherton, and Bert Bagranoff sang and did their bit against a night club and campus background. The show owes much of its success to Dan Beattie for the music and lyrics and to George Wenzl goes the credit of the organization of the orchestra. This was the year of "firsts" for Troubadours, for we had our first orchestra, our first professionally executed costumes, our first radio broadcasts, and our first patron list to be headed by a Vice-President of the land. We have taken on an expansive air despite last-minute shifts in scenery, lost dancing shoes, forgotten lines, cracked voices, and smeared greasepaint.

The history of the organization dates back to 1925, when the Dramatic Association, under the guidance of Dr. Robert W. Bolwell, was formed to include the Players, the Mimes, the Dyonisians and the Troubadours. The first production was the "Miniature Lady," an operetta in two acts. The productions of 1925, 1926, and 1927 took place in the gymnasium. In 1928 the show was taken to Wardman Park for production. "Gyped in Egypt" of 1930 found Troubadours at the McKinley Auditorium, where the last three performances have been given.

HAR BE it from us (the editorial us) to retaliate in this worthy document to such recalcitrant verbiage as we found in the Razzberry, but we feel it necessary to reply in regard to the remarks about the Theta Delt—Kappa—Jewish combination. We have heard, dear iconoclastic writers, that water seeks its own level, that might is right, and hundreds of other dainty platitudes of which people are fond of saying, "They mean nothing," but which are always uppermost in our minds. "For all that faire is, is therefore goode," said dear old Spenser, if we remember, and we think that The Queen's Husband was "faire," therefore "goode."

While we are quoting the venerable we may remember what the very hard-to-please and exacting, though delightful, Dr. Croissant said about us. "The best thing I have seen at the University, both in direction and in acting." Hmm, say we, the combination must have been agreeable.

When the curtain went up, you, the audience, and we, the actors, gazed upon a glamorous set which we and you had never seen before. And they tell that the audience waited breathlessly for the entrance of Westbrook and Danzansky, expecting a combination which would prove fertile. We (editorially again) don't believe this, but we cannot help hearing things. Pity, you say, that they can't go on playing chess like that forever. Secretly, of course, you suspect a clever analogy between the penguin and the character and appearance of the king, and we suspect, though not openly, that you are quite correct.

In spite of someone who (?) did not want freshmen women to take leading parts in productions, Amanda Chittum was good, almost unsuspected and rather wonderful. Her tears wet the uniform of the king and the colors ran. Her tears even moved the Queen underneath, although in her beautifully portrayed superiority, would not admit it to you out there.

"Come, come, General Northrup, don't bluster so. You are so real that your audience will never find out what a nice person you are."

If at the end we may lapse into the vernacular—the cast was really swell. And please, audience, try to think of what a good performance the people you did not see gave. Back stage Miss Constance Brown was the star and Phyllis Mills played a second lead which was brilliant. Bow and applaud, please, to the crowd which hailed the King, and to the thunderous guns, which, you know, were real guns. And now no one needs to call to Cue and Curtain, "Awake and Rehearse", for they are ready for the next curtain—"House Lights, please."

Cue and Curtain is composed only of students who have proved their ability in dramatics at George Washington University. "The Queen's Husband", by Robert Sherwood, was presented at the Wardman Park Little Theater, November 13th and 14th. It was directed by Miss Constance Brown, who had just returned from European study. Ada Green and Frank Westbrook led a capable cast of 16.

Miss Brown also directed a splendid cast in the Spring Play, "The Contrast," by Royall C. Tyler, the first comedy written and produced in America. It is actually of the time of Washington, who was one of the original subscribers in 1776.

A capable production staff under Phyllis Mills worked most efficiently in both plays.

DELTA SIGMA RHO, national honorary forensic society, each year makes two awards in the form of cups for inter-fraternity and inter-sorority debating. If the same society becomes winner for three successive years the cup remains in its possession. The awards were founded in 1930, in which year the cups were won by Pi Beta Phi and Phi Sigma Kappa.

In 1931 the cup for the inter-sorority contest went to Dorothy Porterfield and Ruth Allen for Kappa Delta, and the one for the inter-fraternity contest went to Seymour Mintz and Colman Stein for Phi Epsilon Pi.

PUBLIC SPEAKING HONORS

DAVIS PRIZES

 HE Davis prizes, founded by Hon. Isaac Davis in 1847, are awarded annually to members of the Senior class having made the greatest progress in public speaking since their connections with the University.

The award of these prizes, which are in gold, is determined by a public speaking contest in which the participants deliver original orations and are judged by a committee of three members, chosen by the Department of Public Speaking.

The winners in the 1931 contest and the subjects of their orations are as follows:

First Prize, Paul H. McMurray....."Compulsory Unemployment Insurance"
Second Prize, Oscar B. Glick....."The Anti-Trust Laws"
Third Prize, Robert E. Freer....."Capital Punishment"

FRESHMAN ORATORICAL CONTEST

 HE Freshman Oratorical Contest for women was founded by Sigma Delta Phi, honorary speech arts' sorority, in 1931. A silver cup is awarded the winner each year, and honorable mention is given to the competitor taking second place.

The awards are made on the basis of a contest at which original orations are given. The decisions are made by three judges selected by the Department of Public Speaking.

The winners in the 1931 contest and the subjects of their orations are as follows:

First Place, Lucy Frank....."Racketeering"
Second Place, Letha Scott....."Sportsmanship"

"Others of our great men have been appreciated—many admired by all. But him we love. Him we all love. About and around him we call up no dissentient and discordant and dissatisfied elements, no sectional prejudice nor bias, no party, no creed, no dogma of politics. None of these shall assail him. When the storm of battle blows darkest and rages highest, the memory of Washington shall nerve every American army and cheer every American heart. It shall relume that Promethean fire, that sublime flame of patriotism, that devoted love of country, which his words have commended, which his example has consecrated."

STUDENT COUNCIL DANCE

THE Student Council opened the year quite auspiciously with its usual welcoming dance to the freshmen, members of the Faculty, and old standbys.

The campus was attractively decorated with lanterns, while two dance orchestras in Stockton and Corcoran Halls kept the couples moving constantly. As an innovation a stringed quartet was procured by Dr. Bolwell for the benefit of those who still love to hear the strains of the old masters.

The popularity of the punch bowl in part relieved the marked congestion in Corcoran and Stockton Halls.

THE COUNTY FAIR

THE Y. W. C. A. County Fair held sway in Corcoran Hall on November the 11th. Booths offering a variety of refreshments lined the walls, and made a most attractive setting for the large crowd which attended. The Kappas' Bingo Booth with Glee Club Records as prizes, was voted the most attractive, and Sigma Kappa and Pi Phi tied for second place. Pi Phi won the popularity prize by cornering the men most successfully, while Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Kappa finished second. Dancing went on in Corcoran Hall to the strains of Jerry Free's music.

Members of the Troubadours entertained with numbers from their show, "Happy Landings," and for once Jerry Sickler did not do his famous snake dance.

Another feature of the evening was a pie eating contest (which, by the way, almost failed to materialize because some of the pies just happened to disappear), won by Whitey Halverson.

The committee consisted of:

Evelyn Eller, Chairman
Marian Boyle, Dancing	Helen Swick, Contests
Betsy Garrett, Publicity	Jane Hill, Features

EVELYN ELLER

O. D. K. THANKSGIVING TEA DANCE

EVEN a charity affair found its way into the social program this season. Omicron Delta Kappa sponsored a tea dance on Thanksgiving afternoon immediately following the North Dakota Game, the proceeds from which were given to a District charity fund. William Thomson, president of O. D. K., was in charge of the arrangements, and secured Goldman's Band to furnish the music.

The dance proved a popular retreat from the cold winds of Griffith Stadium, and was well attended.

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE COUNCIL FORMAL

MURRAY WATTS

THE Interfraternity Pledge Council gave its annual formal at the Shoreham on December the 16th, which proved to be quite as attractive as that of last year. The favors, which were a combination of program and purse, made the event a memorable one for the women. The pledges left nothing undone, and appeared wearing tails, top hats, and their fraternity colors.

Murray Watts, Chairman of the Social Committee, and Kathryn Mitchell led the Grand March, which was photographed by a Staff photographer.

Despite the depression, the pledges did not fail to send the traditional corsage, and even hired two bands—Dagmoir—to play at the affair.

ENGINEERS' BALL

THE outstanding event on the January Social calendar was the Engineers' Ball, held in the west ballroom of the Shoreham on January the 8th. It was a most distinguished gathering, for President Marvin, Dean John R. Lapham, Professor Arthur F. Johnson, Professor Norman B. Ames, Professor A. B. French, and the entire staff of instruction in the Engineering School were present.

The entire affair, from the Grand March to the publication of the newest campus scandal sheet, was a great success, and the rhythmic strains of Red Anderson's band helped the engineers to forget their picks and shovels until the striking of the hour of one.

Ray Heimbürger, the chairman of the committee, to whom a large measure of the success of the dance may be attributed, with Margaret Cook, led the Grand March, which was a combination of military and review formations.

The evening's entertainment was completed with the presentation of several specialty numbers by Marjorie Mitchell, Ralph Kennedy and Bert Bagranoff of the Troubadour's cast.

The chairman of the committee was ably assisted by L. Ron Hubbard, Val Darling, Larry Ball, H. G. Free, Ray Ask, Harry Porch, Warren Weiss, Firman Lyle, Perkins Beauvey, W. T. McNallan, Gordon Noble, Floyd Traver, F. E. Miltenberger, Albert Purchase, and Herman Miller.

RAY HEIMBURGER

INTERFRATERNITY PROM

JACK VIVIAN

KATHERINE BLAKE

THE main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel was the scene of the Interfraternity Prom, which was held on Friday, March the 18th, from ten until two. A large crowd attended, attracted principally by the fact that the Prom is one of the leading social events of the year, and by the music.

Paul Tremaine's Lonely Acres Band furnished the music, which was excellent. The fast tempo seemed to appeal to the dancers, who danced until the last faint strains died away. The crowd was a very colorful one and the many flowers in evidence despite the Interfraternity ban on corsages, added the finishing touches to the scene.

The Grand March which was led by Ruth Remon and C. Manley Fesler, President of the Interfraternity Council, and Katherine Blake and Jack Vivian, Social Chairman of the Council, was the feature of the evening. At its conclusion, a photograph was taken of the entire gathering.

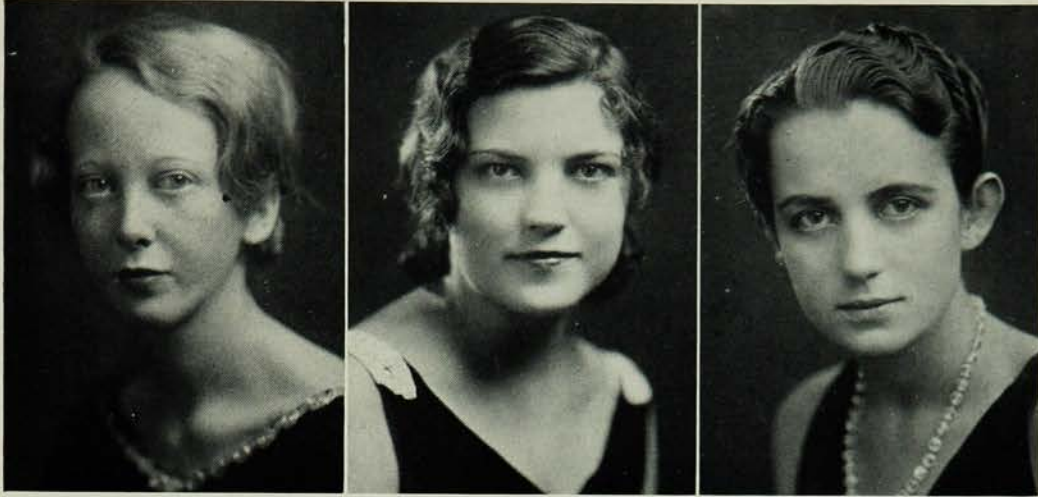

When the pledges of Pi Delta Epsilon had finished selling copies of the Razzberry, the scandal sheet, a deep silence spread over the ballroom. Everyone was reading avidly in the hope that he would find his name mentioned, and judging from the cries that went up, most of them were not disappointed.

Joseph Himmelheber, a student in the Arts School and a well known Washington artist, designed the programs, which were most attractive. The cover portrayed a part of the George Washington campus.

The committee in charge of the Prom, which was one of the most successful which has ever been given, consisted of:

JACK VIVIAN, D. T. D., Chairman
FRANK HALE, S. A. E.
WILLIAM HANBACK, P. S. K.

PANHELLENIC PROM

LOUISE WRIGHT

MARION ZIEGLER

GRACE WHITE

SOME of the best music of the year was furnished by the peppy and enthusiastic Carolinian Tarheels.

This year the men, for a change, were the recipients of favors in the form of attractive black leather bill folds.

During the intermission the Gamma Eta Zeta pledges sold copies of The Petticoat, a scandal sheet corresponding to the Razzberry, which came out at the Interfraternity Prom. In it the girls had a chance to get back at their male rivals, as well as their own Panhellenic sisters!

Louise Berryman, President of the Panhellenic Council, presented the Sorority Scholarship Cup to Alpha Delta Theta and the Bridge Cup to Alpha Delta Pi, after which the dance resumed until 2.30 in the yawning.

The committee in charge of the most successful Panhel Prom of recent years consisted of:

MARION ZIEGLER, Sigma Kappa, Chairman
GRACE WHITE, Zeta Tau Alpha
LOUISE WRIGHT, Kappa Delta

PANHELLENIC LUNCHEON

AS A FIRST step in an effort to organize a Panhellenic Association of the District of Columbia, and to usher in the Bicentennial year, a Panhellenic Luncheon was held at the Mayflower Saturday, January 23rd. Invitations were extended to approximately eighteen hundred fraternity women, active and alumnae members residing in Washington, of sororities in the National Panhellenic Congress.

The suggestion for this luncheon came from the Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club, which had planned to hold a luncheon in January as a Bicentennial celebration, to which a representative from each of the alumnae organizations of Panhellenic sororities in the city was to be invited. This was expanded to planning a luncheon which would include all the members of women's national Greek letter organizations in the District.

Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, prominent authoress and member of Gamma Beta Pi, introduced President Cloyd Heck Marvin, who discussed the part which the United States must play in the movement for the democratization of the world, and more particularly of the spiritual influence of George Washington in the world today.

Miss Helen Dyer, Delta Gamma, was vice-chairman of the general committee and Miss Maude O'Flaherty, Kappa Delta, was secretary-treasurer. Chairmen of the other committees were as follows: Miss Ermyntude Vaiden, Chi Omega, invitations; Miss Myrna Sedgwick, Pi Beta Phi, arrangements; Mrs. J. H. Lafish, Sigma Kappa, publicity; Mrs. George C. Schaffer, Alpha Chi Omega, program; Miss Judith Wood, Alpha Delta Theta, Panhellenic Headquarters.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was an ardent sportsman who loved horses, dogs, riding to the hounds, hunting, and fishing. Jefferson called him "the best horseman of his age and the most graceful figure that could be seen on horseback." Although his skill in horsemanship, marksmanship, and knowledge of woodcraft was proverbial, his simplicity concerning his achievements was as truly good sportsmanship as his athletic prowess.

OUR COACHING STAFF

PIXLEE

FARRINGTON

AFTER the success our many teams have attained we are proud to give due credit and mention to those responsible for this success, which has caused G. W. to rise rapidly in the sports world.

Athletic Director and Head Coach James E. Pixlee attended the University of Missouri, where he was outstanding in both football and baseball. Until his appearance at George Washington, Mr. Pixlee was Director of Athletics at Westminster College, Missouri.

Max Farrington, Assistant Athletic Director, played football at Westminster, where he captained the team in 1925 and was named All-Missouri Conference quarterback.

Leonard Walsh, varsity line coach and freshman football coach, is a product of the University of Minnesota. While a student at the Gopher institution, Walsh made an enviable record in football, being an All-Western selection for two years, as end and as guard, and an All-American end in 1927.

Jean Sexton, freshman football coach, played football at Westminster under Mr. Pixlee's direction and received All-Missouri Conference honors at fullback for two years.

Leo Raskowski attended Ohio State University, where he was an All-American and All-Western tackle in 1927 and 1928.

THE NEW MANAGERIAL SYSTEM

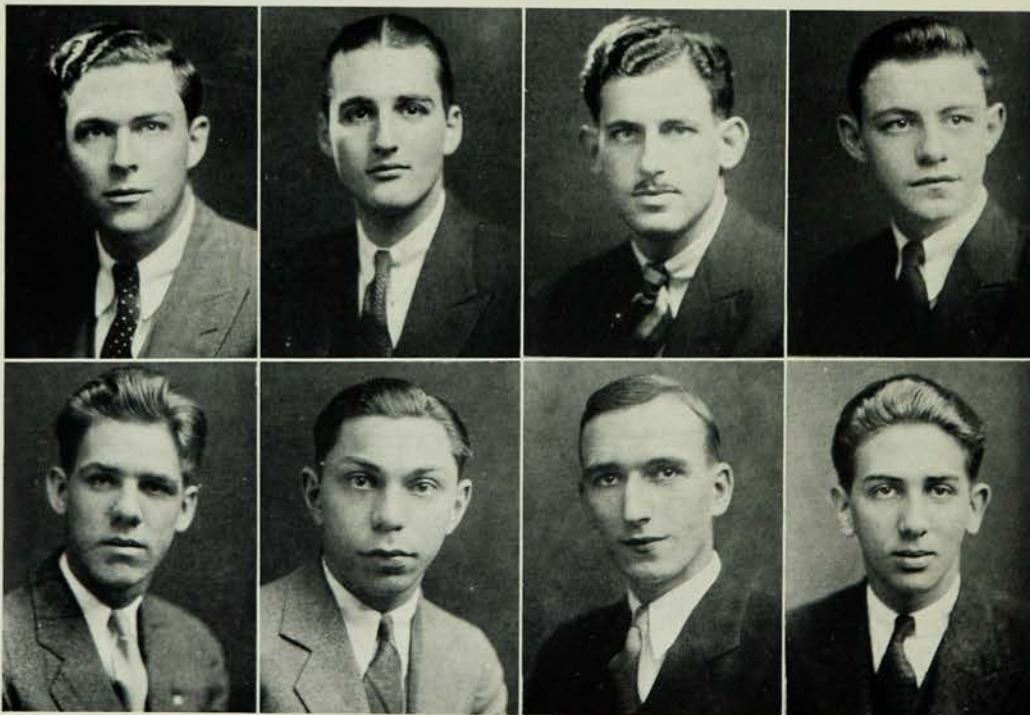

IN ORDER to supply a decided need and to establish a bond of union between the student body, not actively participating in athletics, and the Athletic Department, a new system of managers was installed.

At the head of the system is a senior manager who is directly responsible to the athletic director for the efficiency of the organization. He is the connecting link between the system and the athletic department.

Under the senior manager are three junior managers. They are in charge of separate divisions of the work and are assigned to varsity teams when managers are required as on trips and at games. With the senior manager, the junior managers form an advisory board to promulgate and carry out managerial policies.

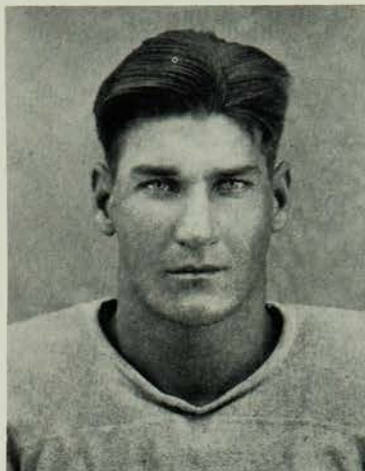

The main body of the system is comprised of the sophomore and freshman managers. The sophomore managers are assigned to the various sports and on occasion serve as managers of the freshman and minor sport teams. The freshman managers do general work in the sports to which they are assigned, under the supervision and control of the sophomores.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

THE George Washington University football team ended its most successful season since the "Iron Men" romped on the gridiron back in 1927. A record of five wins, two losses and two ties indicates in no small manner what the team accomplished from a schedule replete with hard intersectional battles. G. W. ended its season by tying a strong North Dakota eleven and went on in a charity post-season game to hold the Crimson Tide of Alabama to a scoreless tie. Notable victories were scored over Boston University and Butler.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 53; SHENANDOAH, 0.

Shenandoah furnished little in the way of competition for a fast-coming Buff and Blue eleven and was trampled under a 53 to 0 score. Coach Pixlee played several teams against the Virginians in an effort to get a line on his men.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 43; ELON, 0.

The victorious march was continued in the Colonial's next game with a weak Elon College team. Again in this game several different teams were used by G. W. with each being equally successful as the 43 to 0 score shows. Joe Carter and Lee Carlin were particularly instrumental in the downfall of the North Carolinians.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 14; BOSTON, 0.

Boston University was the Colonial's third victim and was only subdued after a great battle at the Hub city.

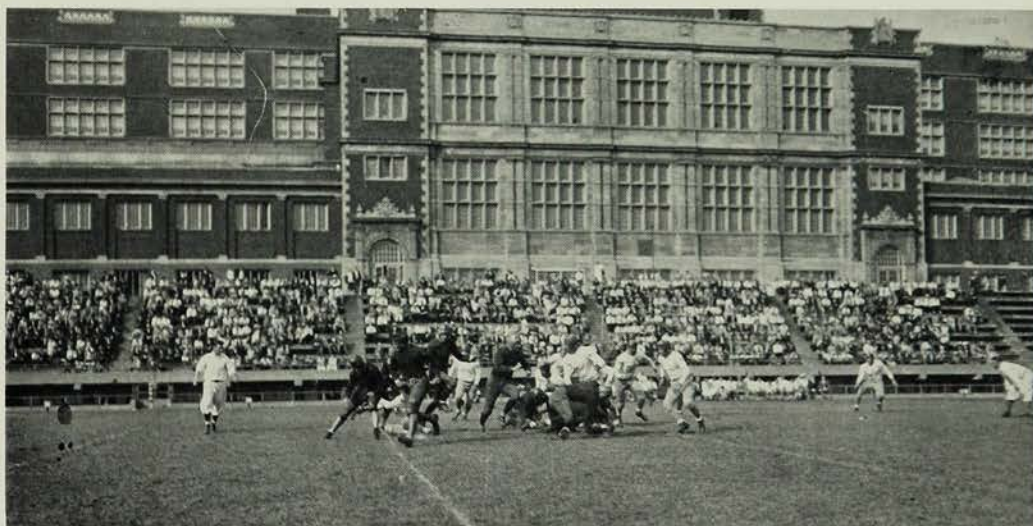

Kriemelmeyer and Carter scored touchdowns for the Colonials. Carter's broken field running was particularly thrilling for the spectators, who declared he was the best back seen at the Boston U. for many a day.

TULSA, 24; GEORGE WASHINGTON, 7.

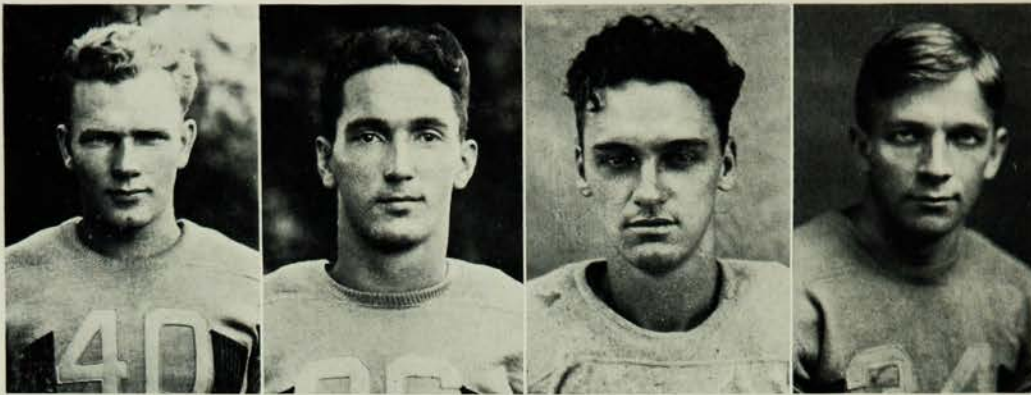

The Oilers from Tusla University were the next foes on the Buff and Blue schedule. By displaying a tricky running attack coupled with a good passing game, they handed G. W. its first defeat of the year before fifteen thousand howling spectators at Griffith Stadium by a score of 24 to 7. This was the second victory for the Oklahomans in two years over Coach Pixlee's charges, the first being when the Colonials traveled west last year. According to many experts, the Tulsa outfit was the best eleven to display its wares in the Capital this season.

VARSITY, 33; FRESHMEN, 0.

The Freshman football team was met by the Varsity on the following Saturday and fell before the greater experience and talent of their seniors, 33 to 0. Virtually the entire Varsity squad saw action in this contest.

IOWA, 7; GEORGE WASHINGTON, 0.

IOWA CITY was the next stop for the fast traveling Colonial squad. The heavier University of Iowa outfit barely nosed out a plucky George Washington University football team, 7 to 0. A marvelous passing attack featuring Chambers, Mulvey and Fenlon almost proved disastrous for the Iowans, who were at one time back on their own twelve-yard line. Blackstone and Mulvey were the stalwarts of a strong G. W. forward wall.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 45; SALEM, 0.

Salem University was the next victim of the G. W. gridders in a night game in the Griffith Stadium. Lee Carlin may be called the one responsible for the Tigers' massacre, as he practically accounted for four of the team's seven touchdowns. Parrish showed up particularly well in intercepting Salem passes and accounted for six intercepted passes during the game.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 32; BUTLER, 7.

In another night game, the Colonials were hosts to a strong Butler University eleven. The Colonials displayed a speedy backfield that went through and around the Butler forward wall with ease. The Bulldogs could do little on the offense and were only able to score once on a short pass from Ken Booz, Hoosier ace. Joe Carter scored eighteen of the 32 points amassed by G. W. and proved to be a good runner of interference.

THE COLONIALS' Thanksgiving Day was a huge success when they held a powerful Flickertail eleven from North Dakota University to a 6-6 tie. The immense size of the Nodaks awed the large crowd at the holiday game. With two minutes to play in the last quarter, Lee Carlin attempted to pass but was suddenly swamped by enemy tacklers. He squirmed to the left and raced 20 yards to the visitors' four-yard line, where a surprise pass to Chambers, on the next play, netted a touchdown.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, 0; ALABAMA, 0.

In a charity post-season game, the Buff and Blue team held the Rose Bowl Champions of 1931 to a scoreless tie, and outplayed the Crimson Tide from start to finish. Numerous long passes from Carlin to Chambers and Mulvey had the Alabamans on the defense almost the entire time that G. W. played them. Georgetown and Catholic Universities also engaged in this football circus with the Colonials, with G. W. apparently displaying the best football of the three against their one worthy opponent.

Next year's schedule, with intersectional tilts with Alabama, Oklahoma, and Iowa, as well as games with such strong teams as William and Mary and Washington and Lee, points to a colorful season for the Colonials and will give G. W. an excellent opportunity to strengthen its position on the football map.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

THE George Washington freshman football team, with Jean Sexton as coach, completed a well-played season with a record of three victories and two defeats. Lack of reserve material with sufficient experience handicapped the Cubs throughout.

Using a style similar to that of the varsity, with a heavy line offset by a quartet of fast, shifty backs, the freshmen ushered in the season on October 10 with a sweeping victory over the Altoona Apprentice School by a score of 45 to 0. Needless to say the Frosh were never put to a complete test in this fray.

On October 17, the Cubs met the powerful Western Maryland Frosh, dropping the decision in the last quarter when the Green Terrors made an extended drive to score the majority of their points. The encounter with the varsity on October 23 proved entirely too much for the inexperienced yearlings, who came out on the short end of a 33-0 score. Both defeats could be traced to the lack of suitable substitutes, the first string men being unable to meet the terrific onslaught in the closing moments of each game.

November 7 saw a rejuvenated freshman outfit in the tussle with the St. John's freshmen of Annapolis. The Cubs pounded the line and made use of a refined aerial attack to bring home a 32-0 victory. The final game of the season showed an even more powerful team than had defeated the St. John's Frosh, when the Cubs completely outclassed the Emerson Institute eleven by a 53 to 13 decision.

The outstanding players of the yearling squad who will in all probability make strong bids for berths on the varsity next season were: Vandenberg, Gleason, Knott, Trilling, Nielsen, and Raskowski.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

CHAMBERS

THE most outstanding basketball team in years to sport the Buff and Blue of George Washington University completed the past season with a record of eleven victories and four defeats in competition with some of the country's foremost quints. A consecutive win streak of ten games was halted late in the season in a return game with the Duquesne University five at Pittsburgh.

Coach Pixlee had most of last year's letter winners back this season in addition to Parrack and Hertzler at the pivot position; and team used most regularly by Mr. Pixlee found Burgess, high scorer of the District in 1930, and Parrack, high scorer of the District this year, at the forward positions; Hertzler at the pivot position; and Zahn and Chambers at guard. Mulvey, Fenlon, Conners and Olver-son alternated thruout the season.

The Colonials started the season with a triumph over the Shenandoah College five by a score of 44 to 27. Burgess led the way in shooting by accounting for nine field goals for a total of 18 points. Zahn, stellar Colonial guard, proved to be the most consistent player on the floor.

Two games with the Quantico Marines found the Leathernecks on the losing end in both affairs. The G. W. quint won the first game, 39 to 27, in the home gym and also came out on top in the Marines' bailiwick 59-31. Parrack led the scoring for the two games with 18 markers in the first game and 16 in the second.

A strong St. Joseph's College team of Philadelphia suffered defeat at the hands of the G. W. cagers by the score of 43 to 25. The Colonials, jumping to an early lead and steadily increasing it, coasted in to an easy victory. A thrilling last-minute rally by the Villanova quint in the next game was staved off largely through the excellent pivot play of Hertzler, who scored 9 points in the 36 to 26 Colonial triumph.

A highly touted Duquesne University quint was the sixth victim of a steadily improving G. W. five, 48 to 27. The G. W. gym was packed to capacity to see the previously undefeated Duke five bewildered before the marvelous shooting of the Colonial giants, Parrack and Hertzler. Parrack led the scoring with 12 points, while Zahn was close behind with 11. Playing host to the De Paul University cagers of Chicago, the Colonials chalked up their seventh win in a close 35-28 game.

PARRACK

The Chicago quint, conquerers of Southern California and Notre Dame, offered stiff opposition and succumbed largely through the close guarding of Zahn. Undoubtedly this was the finest exhibition of basketball seen in the H Street gym in a long while.

The eighth and ninth consecutive victories were scored over Lynchburg College, 50 to 23, and William and Mary, 37 to 35. Little or no opposition was offered by the Lynchburg five; against William and Mary, however, the Colonials were never able to get a substantial lead. Through the efforts of Burgess in scoring 13 points, G. W. once more came out on top.

The Colonials' tenth and last consecutive win was, perhaps, their easiest to accomplish. Baltimore University was the victim of a 72-to-21 onslaught, this score being the highest compiled by any team in the District this year. In this game Chambers played his usual steady brand of basketball.

A trip to Pittsburgh spelled disaster to the G. W. win streak. The Colonials fell behind at the opening whistle, never once having the lead in this 38-32 loss. The inability of Parrack to find the basket was keenly felt despite the clever work of Zahn at guard. After three days rest, the Hatchetites came back to win 48 to 34 against Wake Forest. Again in this game Zahn stood out both offensively and defensively, being the high scorer of the evening with thirteen points.

A northern trip with games against St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, St. John's College in Brooklyn, and Rider College in Newark closed the season for the varsity. All three games were lost by heartbreaking last-minute rallies by their opponents. A total of five points in the three games was the margin between victory and defeat for the Buff and Blue. St. Joseph's managed to overcome an early G. W. lead to eke out a 32-31 victory. On the next night against the nationally known St. John's quint, George Washington again started off to gain a seemingly insurmountable lead only to eventually lose the verdict in the last stanza. The best efforts of Parrack, Zahn and Chambers could not stave off the 40 to 37 defeat. Rider College handed G. W. its last defeat by a 40-39 score in a thrilling encounter. Led by Parrack the Colonials cut a four-point lead in the last five minutes of play, but missed on the crucial shots at the final whistle. Parrack's 18 points led the scoring.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

HE George Washington Freshman Basketball Team completed a brilliant season with a record of thirteen triumphs and only four defeats. Two of the losses were at the hands of the District High School Champions and all were by a small margin.

Coach Len Walsh, having a group of former high school stars to work with, soon developed a fine team. With such men as Noonan, forward, Shirley, Gleason and Albert, guards, and Wickham, center, going out for the varsity next year, there should be a good deal of strength added to that squad.

FRANK PARSONS
Coach

Varsity Rifle

THE George Washington University Men's Rifle Team has had another successful season under the expert coaching of Frank Parsons.

At the beginning of the year the team was handicapped by the loss of Henry Boudinot, an excellent rifleman of last year's team.

Two new men took places on the varsity five and after losing the first two matches of the season by close scores, the rejuvenated team showed marked improvement and now stands in its usual place among the leading rifle teams in the country. The chief objective of the year was the National Intercollegiate Team Championships. The South Atlantic District matches of the Intercollegiates was scheduled for the George Washington range. Special interest was manifested in this competition which found about twenty teams shooting it out shoulder-to-shoulder.

In 1931 G. W. placed second to Navy in these same matches and was far ahead of the Iowa State University team, which came in third. This year's matches found G. W. and Navy again fighting it out for top honors. The Colonials traveled to the Naval Academy in the earlier part of the year to take part in a challenge match with the sailors, which they lost by the close score of 1398 to 1370. The score shot by the Navy was the highest they had made in any match up to that one this year. Brightenburg, who recently has been racing Captain Barr for team leadership, tied Navy's high man with the exceedingly respectable score of 283 out of a possible 300.

Captain William C. Barr, a senior in the School of Medicine, has been consistently chalking up high scores for the Buff and Blue team. Last year he won the National Intercollegiate Individual Championship, but because of illness was not able to compete again this year. Other team members who have been sharing high gun honors with Barr are: Tom Jackson, John Brightenburg, Art Beach, and Manager Harry Melcer. Nearly all of these men made a good showing in the intercollegiate individual matches and have been hitting the bulls-eye with astonishing regularity.

John Brightenburg has probably shown more natural shooting ability than anyone at George Washington in recent years. He has continually been producing high scores in shoulder-to-shoulder matches and much is expected of him next year.

Marano, Schmidt and Traver are the new men on the team and have strengthened the squad perceptibly. Each of these men has shown great promise and high scores are expected of them in coming matches.

Next year Captain Barr and Jackson will be lost, but another strong team will probably be moulded together by Coach Parsons around such veterans as Brightenburg, Beach and Melcer.

THE Colonial natators, under the able tutelage of Albert Lyman, completed an active season with reasonable success. With Captain Rote, sprint artist, and Burnside, distance swimmer, the only letter men from last year's squad back, Coach Lyman molded together a representative group of merman before the season was over.

Meets were held with Washington and Lee, Johns Hopkins, William and Mary, University of Virginia, and Duke University in addition to the A. A. U. meets and the National Intercollegiate Championships held at the Naval Academy.

Notable additions to the Buff and Blue team this year were: Gale Heslop, fancy diver; James Kinsler, breaststroker; Dick Garrett, and Bob McMillan, dash men.

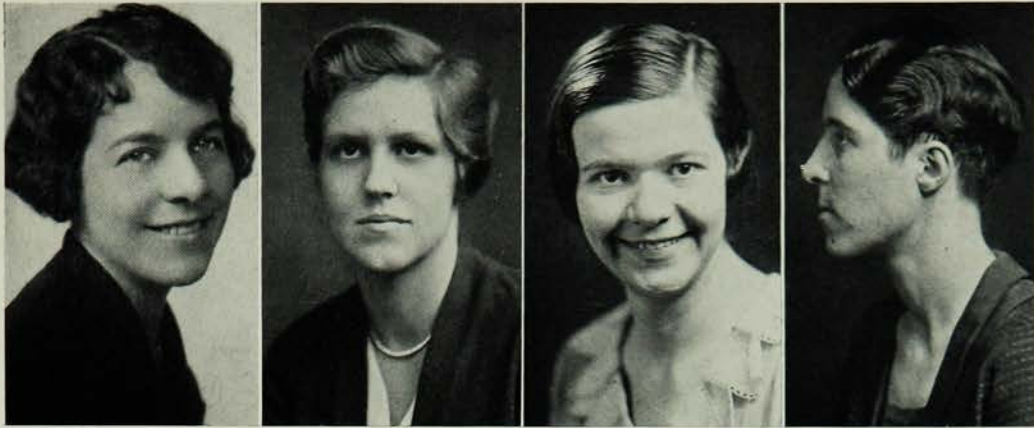

Varsity Tennis

WITHOUT the sterling leadership and playing of Capt. Bob Considine, the 1932 varsity squad faces an unusually difficult schedule of nine matches with some of the strongest collegiate racquetters.

Allan Staubly, Chen Lee, Harry Goldsmith, R. Sherfy and L. Sherfy are the nucleus around which a G. W. varsity team will have to be built. Numerous new prospects are expected to try for the Buff and Blue positions, among whom are Randolph Robinson, winner of the 1931 Intramural Tennis Championship, and Alfred Stanton, semi-finalist.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION STAFF

MISS RUTH ATWELL has shown what a vast experience can do with a Department. A graduate of Denison University she studied at Wellesley College in the Graduate Department of Physical Education and Hygiene. She has been Director of Physical Education at Denison University, Stanford University and Hollins College. At present she is honored with the Vice-Presidency of the Eastern Society of Directors of Physical Education for Women in Colleges and Universities. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Miss Ruth Aubeck has studied at the Central School of Physical Education and Hygiene at Columbia University and at the Bird-Larsere Studio and Denishawn School of Dance. She has taught physical education at Randolph-Macon College and the University of Pittsburgh and has been the dramatic and dancing instructor at various camps throughout the country.

Miss Agnes Rodgers, the new member of the Department, graduated from Smith College in 1929 and studied at the Boston School of Physical Education the following year. She received her M. A. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1931. For several years she has been a councillor in some of the biggest camps in the country.

Miss Helen Lawrence is a graduate of the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics and has also studied at Columbia University and George Washington. She is a member of Chi Omega.

THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

IN MAY, 1928, the group of girls, locally organized as the G. W. Club, became the Women's Athletic Association of the George Washington University. National standing had been the goal of this active club and it was only through hard and consistent work that this goal was attained. The W. A. A. is now a responsible organization, working to secure further student participation and control of athletics.

Eligibility for membership may be acquired by participation in athletics to the extent of making one's class team, or by becoming manager of one of the sports offered by the Physical Education Department. In exceptional cases, membership may be granted by vote of the Executive Board.

At the beginning of the school year, the Association formulates its policies for the coming year, and these as well as the national aims of the organization become the responsibility of the Association under the guidance of the Executive Board.

Among the social events sponsored by the W. A. A. this year, the three formal banquets are outstanding. One has been held at the end of each sport season, at which time awards have been presented to those girls and groups who have earned them during the past season. These awards take the form of major and minor letters, class numerals, cups and plaques. The Association also gave a "barn dance" as its annual party for freshmen women. A benefit bridge party and a rummage sale, sponsored in an endeavor to raise money, met with gratifying success. The success of the W. A. A. during the past year gives every indication that its growth and development will continue through the coming years.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE Executive Board of the Women's Athletic Association is composed of the officers elected by the Association, the class representatives, the publicity manager, the manager of Intra-Murals and the sports managers. It is this group which formulates and executes the rules under which the various sports are organized and run, and which directs the Association in its various activities. The Director of Physical Education for Women and the Instructors in the Department act as advisory members of the board.

The members of the Executive Board this year are Katherine McCallum, president; Edith Brookhart, vice-president; Louise James, secretary; Dorothy Wilson, treasurer; Katheen Watkins, publicity manager; Harriet Atwell, Hatchet representative; Dorothy Heflebower, manager of Hockey; Louise Linkins, manager of Basketball; Edith Grosvenor, manager of Soccer; Mary Louise Braselton, manager of Tennis; Annabel McCullough, manager of Rifle; Betty Monroe, manager of Swimming; Katherine Prichard, manager of Golf; Helen Swick, manager of Archery; Bessie Buchanan, manager of Track; Florence Hedges, manager of Baseball; Carol Simpson, manager of Intra-Murals, and Louise Berryman, Grace Haley, Janet Young and Olga Lofgren, class sport chairmen.

A new feature sponsored by the board this year is the system of sport chairmen. The general sports managers, for that is their real position, are elected by each class, and have as their purpose closer organization of the classes and general instigation of interest in the class tournaments. A marked increase in enthusiasm and support of the athletic events has resulted from this new feature.

Playdays in different sports with various schools and colleges have been successfully sponsored by the board during the past season. Intra-Mural clubs have also received the support and guidance of the Association and Executive Board.

BASKETBALL

THE Basketball season was welcomed with much eagerness in the form of pep rallies and posters. With a very large group out for practice it was a difficult task to pick the teams.

The class games marked the climax of the season and some very fine basketball was played. The competition ended with the Junior-Senior teams tying for first place and due to the lateness of the season both teams will receive numerals.

On March 5 a play-day was held with Goucher. A large bus load of girls went over and it was very successful from a social viewpoint. The teams did very well and Goucher was conceded a worthy opponent.

KATHERINE MCCALLUM
Senior Class Manager

HOCKEY had an unusually good year under the managership of Dorothy Heflebower with Miss Atwell and Miss Rodgers coaching the teams. An exceptionally large Junior-Senior group provided good material for the team which won the interclass tournament. Many freshmen and sophomores were out for this sport, too, and several of them were named for the honorary varsity.

The regulars on the honorary varsity team were Grace Haley, Priscilla Bunker, Katherine McCallum, Betty Garber, Olga Lofgren, Mary Lee Watkins, Helen Chafee, Catherine Crane, Louise Cox, Mabel Gerner, and Inge von Lewinski. The substitutes were Louise Linkins, Dorothy Heflebower and Thompson. Katherine McCallum, Helen Chafee, Louise Cox and Betty Garber received major letters in recognition of their outstanding work in this sport for this year.

Interest was added to the season's games by competition with Hood College in the annual sports day in November at which George Washington University was hostess this year.

Top Row—Chafee, McCallum, Von Lewinski, Garber, Watkins.

EDITH GROSVENOR
Manager

For the first time, there were four teams out. They were under the able management of Janice Hyatt, senior manager; Ray Miller, junior; Elizabeth Middlemas, sophomore, and Alice Buell, freshman.

Although each team showed the enthusiasm and cooperation which is characteristic of good sportsmanship, the senior class won and received their class numerals. The team was made up of Janice Hyatt, Betty Garber, Katherine Gray, Inge von Lewinski, Hilda Haves, Neva Ewin, Bertha Kauffman, Katherine McCallum, Emera Johnson, Lillian Rosenfeld and Frances Kahn.

One of the exhibition games was played on the afternoon of the Hood College play-day, November 7. These teams were composed of G. W. girls chosen by the captains and the coach. The intra-mural games which were played before the class games were won by the "Rhapsody in Black," who defeated the "Ballyhoo" team.

SOCCER

EVERY year soccer proves itself to be one of the most popular sports among the G. W. students. There is a steady increase from year to year in the number who come out.

Miss Helen Lawrence, the coach, and Edith Grosvenor, the manager, showed so much enthusiasm that the players overcame all the discouraging features that occurred. The Odd-Even game was played under the handicap of muddy fields and drizzling rain, but instead of worrying about it, there was a feeling that the muddier a player could get, the better she could play.

VARSIY RIFLE

HIS year was an unusually successful one for the Women's Rifle Team. In January, five members of the team entered the National Women's Individual Intercollegiate Championship match. Caroline Seibert placed second with a score of 595, Virginia Sheffield was fourth with 593 and Ruth White sixth with 592.

In February the N. R. A. Intercollegiate team championship match consisting of three stages of twenty targets each, was shot. The team scored 2946 out of a possible 3000 and placed fourth. The members of the varsity team are Virginia Sheffield, captain; Emera Johnson, Carolyn Seibert, Evelyn Kerr, Lois Corea and Virginia Dillman, members of the team last year, and Grace White, Ruth White, Ruth Schmidt, Naomi Meyers, Leah MacArthur and Myrta Williams.

The Beginners Individual match was fired the last week in February. A gold medal was awarded to the winner, Mary Louise Yauch, whose score was 94. Margaret Claxton and Eleanor King tied for second place with the score of 93.

In March, the interclass match was won by the Junior-Senior team with a score of 451. The members of the winning team were Pauline Schaub, Margaret Claxton, Annabelle McCullough, Beatrice Coleman, Edith Mitchell and Lethama de Shazo. These girls were awarded class numerals.

INTRA-MURAL SPORTS

IN their second year as part of the program of the Women's Athletic Department, Intra-mural Sports have met with much success and enthusiasm. The Board, which consists of a manager and a representative from each group which competes in the tournaments, has been a very active body this year and great progress has been made. Recently, the Board voted that, since the main function of Intra-mural Sports is to interest the girls who would not otherwise come out for sports, major Physical Education students and girls holding either major or minor athletic awards should be barred from competition in the Intra-mural contests.

Kappa Kappa Gamma holds the cup which was awarded last year for winning the most points in the various Intramural contests. This year, the winners and runners-up for the different tournaments are as follows:

Miniature Golf—Won by Alpha Delta Pi, runner-up, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Volley Ball—Won by Kappa Kappa Gamma, runner-up, Sigma Kappa.

Bowling—Won by Phi Delta, runner-up, Kappa Delta.

Badminton—Won by Kappa Kappa Gamma, runner-up, Phi Sigma Sigma.

The cup must be won three years in succession to be kept by the winner. A basketball tournament and tennis doubles completed the program for this year.

Officers for the board for next year are: Manager, Mary Louise Yauch; Secretary, Hilda Haves; Treasurer, Anna Bodony.

Top Row—Fowler, Mitchell, Yauch, Francis, Harden, Bernstein, Monroe, Bodony.

SWIMMING CLUB

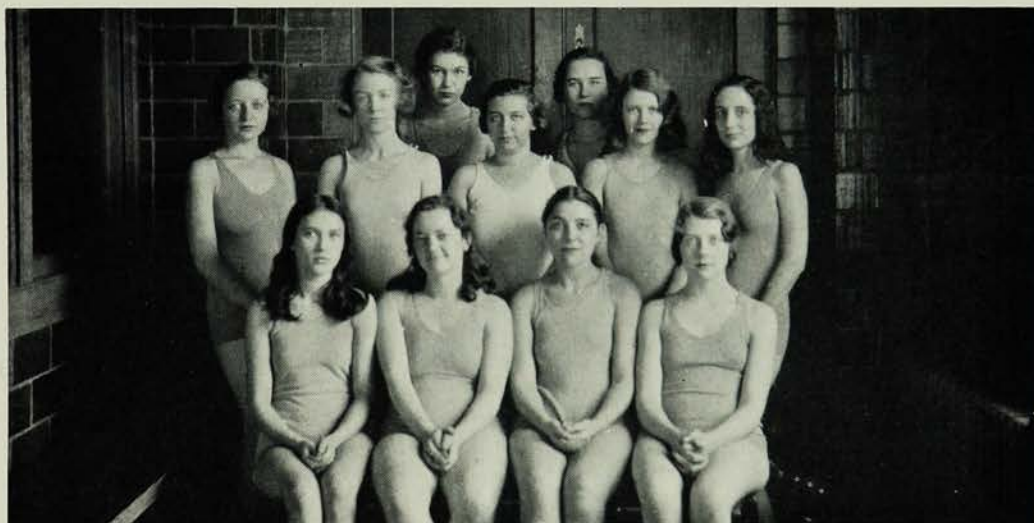

WITH splashes of great enthusiasm the Girls' Swimming Club meets once a week at the Y. W. C. A. This intra-mural club was founded for the idea of pleasure only. Fast games of water polo, diving contests, and races occupy its members. The membership committee does not require a swimming test, but all applicants have to be able to wade.

One afternoon in the spring representatives from all the sororities get together and have a big swimming play-day. This year swimming is working in collaboration with Orchesis on a combined water and dance pageant.

Last spring the varsity squad had a telegraphic meet with Swarthmore which the George Washington team won. The Honorary Varsity consisted of: Von Lewinski, White, Bunker, Elfelt, Linkins, Monroe, Brookhart and Hedges.

The greatest interest of the season was shown in class swimming. Competition was very intense with many pep speeches and general tumult. After many preliminary workouts, the Sophomore team won by default from the Seniors, much to the annoyance of the Freshman. The Sophomore team consisted of Betty Elfelt, Marjorie Crittenden, Betty Monroe, and Edith Brookhart.

This year the team has high hopes of winning more telegraphic meets from other universities.

HELEN CHAFEE, Manager

THE singles tennis tournament began with a large number out to strive for success. The number of contestants and the December rains combined to make the finals come late.

Reba Barton, freshman, defeated Judith Fishburn by a hard won victory in the semi-finals. Marion Butler defeated Barton in the finals, which made Butler singles champion for two successive years.

The Sophomore class team won the class tournament last spring. The team consisted of Chafee, Braselton, Wassman and Nordlinger. The doubles tournament will be played in a few weeks.

DEDICATION

EN sleep while history is made. The great majority of people in the world probably do not realize that with the graduation from the George Washington University of the class of nineteen hundred and thirty-two, the old order is changing, giving place to the new. This class is the last of a long school of resistance. It is the class that knew days before life was regulated to a Social Calendar, and rebelled against the innovation of the same. It is the class that had Dean Rose "in office" for one year and has fought against Mrs. Barrows' usurping for three. These graduates were members of the University before it would admit the existence of a football team. It is the last class that has known the full significance of fraternity and sorority politics with open line-ups, stuffed ballots, and all the attendant amusement and amazement. To that spirit which has motivated this class, and to the hope that this same spirit is dormant in succeeding classes and not dead, we dedicate our Cherry Tarts.

ONE MINUTE GLIMPSES AT FRATERNITY RUSHING

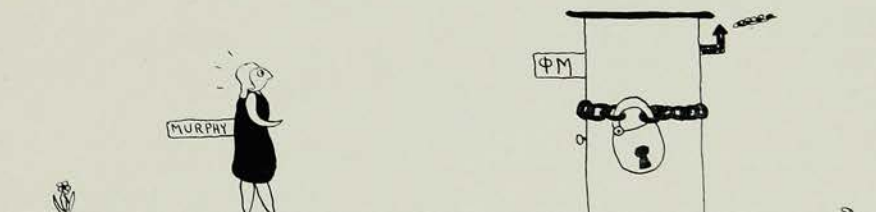

The Pi Phi's had a little more difficulty in rushing this year than they like. All Janet Shephard's stories, however, did not cinch Watson and Sherfey. They told all the freshmen that if they had any acquaintances that were hunchbacks to bring them around because they would be glad to pledge them. (If you don't understand this ask any Freshman that pledged Kappa or Chi O.)

With the help of the Kappas, the Chi Omegas managed to get several good freshmen. However the combined tears of Edith Brookhart and Janey Allen could not keep Ida Anderson from going Pi Phi. Edwina Seale had the courage of her convictions and will be initiated if she ever makes her grades.

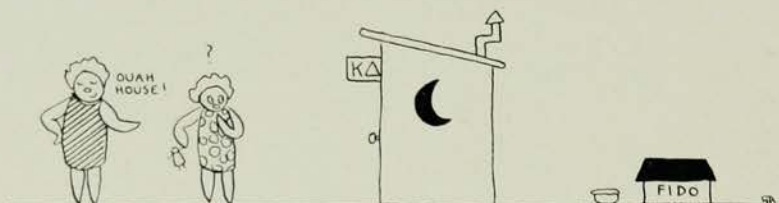

Sigma Kappa's rush season was very successful if numbers mean everything. They thought they had Virginia Pope well spiked due to their "Tear songs," but the Kappas and Chi O's came to the rescue and put her on the shelf for the Pi Phi's. No one saw Barbara Jones until after she was pledged, and Ted Clarey herself didn't know she was eligible for pledging until she had her ribbons on.

Everyone on the campus was afraid to rush Mary Murphy because she looks rather "that way." Phi Mu thought that everyone wanted her and that they were pulling a very fast one to pledge her.

A. D. Pi pledged six freshmen whom no one had ever seen before or will ever see again. It doesn't make much difference except that these girls will all be Editors of the Hatchet in due time.

Kappa Delta pledged some fairly good people in spite of Louise Wright. Some of them are awful, too, but one must support one's house. These girls always have affiliated Presidents, and we are beginning to worry about next year, but then "all of us girls" have faith in Louise Wright.

ZETA TAU ALPHA CHAPTER PICTURE

The Z. T. A. chapter has been a perfect blank except for Grace White for the past three years. Their rushing season wasn't even worth mentioning, but that is partly because A. D. Theta and Phi Mu spiked a couple of girls away from them.

Williams, Clark, Hicks, Gummel, and Lawton have tried to keep Delta Zeta in the running. Now LAWTON is graduated and she never was too enthusiastic anyway. In her less erratic moments she did pledge several girls, but who can possibly be in Delphi now.

Alpha Delta Theta chose the same time and place for their final party as the Kappa Delta's. Panhellenic spirit simply radiated as they tried to outsing and out-talk each other. One girl fainted.

The Phi Delta's new apartment didn't even help in rushing Dot Porter, who already happened to be a Kappa Kappa Gamma. Porter was sorry and so were the Kappas.

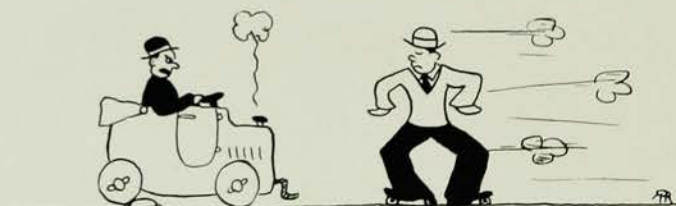

The Kappas thought they had a very successful rush season, and so did everyone else then, but passing time has proved that all that glitters is brass. They haven't any cups, but they have a bag of Menefee's tears over Babs Harrison for a trophy. Have you seen McGowan? If the Pi Phi's have, they will use her for a rush story next year.

No one knows why S. A. E. made such a noise about Leonard Day. All he has done so far to further campus activities is to keep Peggy Cook amused. Thank God somebody will do that without requiring a salary!

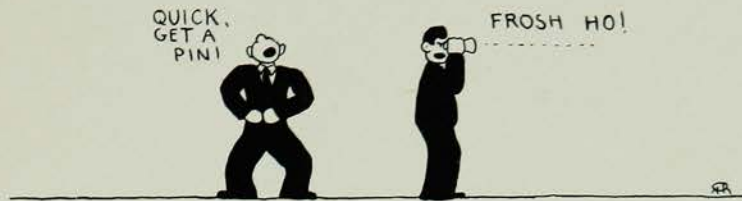

It has been rumored that the S. P. E. chapter has not died out and is only sleeping. National Officials may be interested enough to investigate, but the freshmen were not.

Betty Reynolds told Margaret Blackistone that Gene Skarf wanted a Sigma Chi bid (failing to mention that he was already pledged Sigma Nu). Margaret told her brother, the Great Demenue, and then Sigma Chi started sweatboxing Gene. Rumor has it that it was rather amusing.

Theta Delta thought that they had Billy Weeder pretty well sewed up, due to the efforts of Westbrook and Henderson, but the Reynolds-Bearce, Beall-Burgess combinations got to work and now Weeder wears the White Star.

Turn about is fair play. Sigma Nu thought that they had Leonard Stevens, after he had been pledged Theta Delt for days. Theta Delt's worst mistake was pledging Foster Slaughter after sufficient warning, but they broke his pledge. Sigma Chi will probably try him next.

The Phi Sigs were very well satisfied with themselves for getting Ray Coombes from Theta Delt. Theta Delt's were afraid that they would have to take him because he was Russell's brother, and were as satisfied with the pledging as the Phi Sigs. No one has ever heard of any of the others except from the Kappa pledges. Jean Fugitt told them, but they apparently were not interested.

The nameless dead. Wendell Bain and Ralph McCoy are the T. U. O. chapter since Bucky Herzog graduated. That's something. Some chapters don't have two men.

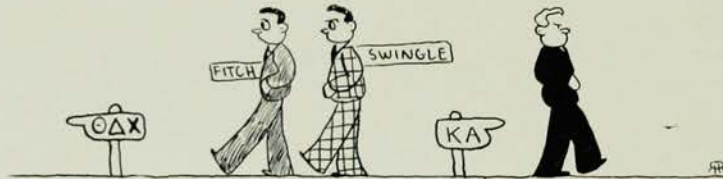

There was a club without Greek letters,
Which took what was left by the betters.
They gleaned the trash
With no thought of the cash,
And the Freshmen found themselves in fetters.

The Kappa Sigs haven't yet recovered from the shock of losing Max Brasch to S. A. E. in spite of Kenny Mulford and Caroline Brasch. It's probably just as well for the Kappa Sigs for nobody will ever hear of him in S. A. E. either.

One would have thought "Pug" Hay was a Delt even before he was pledged. Maybe he thought so because he was rushing a Chi O pledge. They really didn't do so punk pledging "Pug"; they have a lot even worse.

The K. A.'s did some nice rushing and came out very well except for the fact that they wanted Billy Fitch and Cal Swingle, whom they lost to Theta Delta Chi. The rest of the campus, however, was theirs.

HALL OF SHAME

WE POINT FINGERS AT:

MIDGE BURNHAM

Because she is still trying to make the Weitzel brother. Because she has cooperated in keeping Hour Glass from becoming Mortar Board. Because her life has been blighted by a man from out of town with a Phi Delta Theta pin.

JERRY SICKLER

Because he tried to kiss Mary Detwiler in a telephone booth and he ought to know she is somebody's Darling girl. Because he is working at Saint Elizabeth's and he should be rooming there.

JOE CARTER and
MIDGE MONTGOMERY

Because they can't suppress the inclination to "woo" even in the Food Shop, and because Midge is still jealous of Betty Reynolds, even though Betty finished with Joe some time back.

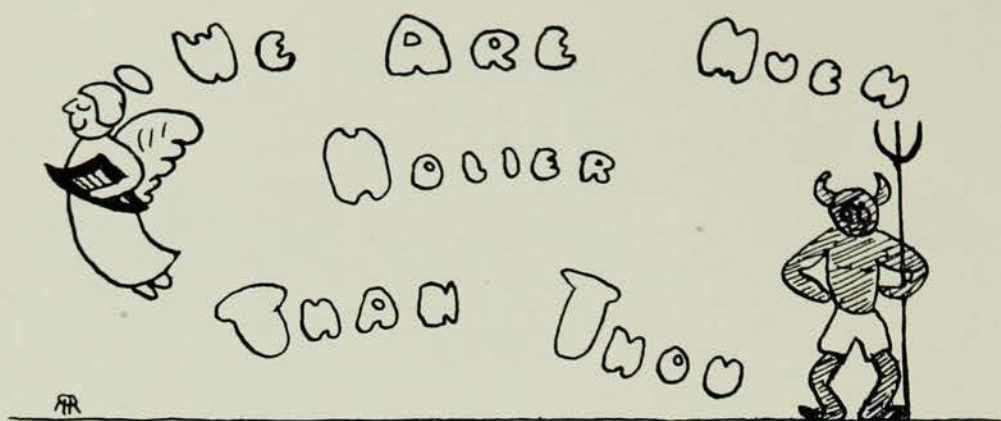

MRS. BARROWS

Because we suspect there is something unpublished between her and Dr. Moss or else they wouldn't allow her to stay in the Psychology Department.

CHRIS SPIGNUL

Because she took "Russ" Coombes away from Dottie Shenken and thinks it is cute. Because she is one of the last of the real old-fashioned die-hard Chi Omegas and unfortunately has never had a political career.

LOUISE BERRYMAN, because:

1. She radiates panhellenic spirit while spiking freshmen.
2. The Pi Phi's get out of control and do things that look too open, but she manages to cover them over by scowling at the Chi Omegas and Kappas insinuating that they are dirty rushers. (The Chi O's and Kappas, not the Pi Phi's.)
3. She feels that the school can't get along without her, but her husband can.

FLETCHER HENDERSON, because:

1. He thinks all the Theta Delts are swell, even Van Demark.
2. He thinks smoking a cigarette after class with his professors will net him A's and B's instead of D's and C's.
3. He has fooled some few people into thinking he's smart, but not his fellow students or professors. Maybe his mother and father and Frank and Jean.

ZACHARIA DEMENUE BLACKISTONE, because:

1. He thinks Priscilla Evans loves him.
2. He has a dog, a ford, a sister, and a damnable Princeton air.
3. He works with the District Sewerage Commission.
3. He patronizes.

CECILE HARRINGTON, because:

1. Her West Point lover left her cold and she—got a blanket.
2. She thinks she will be a President's wife.
3. She approves of Marian Boyle.
4. She was going to do big things with Gamma Eta Zeta (like pledging a lot of A. D. Pi's).
5. She is S. S. and G.

EDITH MCCOY, because:

1. She still believes in Kappas.
2. She thinks she is Panhellenic.
3. She thinks she is Chi Omega's best friend.
4. She has annoyed the Pi Phi's in her day.
5. Her day is past and she doesn't know it.

MRS. BARROWS, because:

1. Her daughter Priscilla rode down from Cornell with a boy.
2. She has been taking courses for several years, trying to get a Sigma Kappa bid.
3. She knows what Kappas, Pi Phi's, and Chi O's do when they are not in class.
4. Her house maid instinct comes out frequently while she is playing house mother to the sororities.

The above is an exact copy of one of the letters put on Mr. Baker's desk every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday morning at nine by Harriet Anderson. Ummm.

The poem printed below was given to your editor by Leonard Stevens. He said to please print it about Walter Rhinehart because Walter had said nasty things about the Theta Delts in Chips, and after all they were not a collegiate fraternity, in spite of Jenner's.

*When little Walter came to school
It was not as a scholar.
And when he sneaked in Sigma Chi
The brothers raised a holler.*

*And though the brothers fret and fume
Castastrophe did follow
For Walter's chosen "nom de plume"
Is none other than Dick Rollo.*

*He takes protection for his words
Behind his stunted size
And for the lowest known I. Q.
Sir Walter takes the prize.
(Boys will be boys!)*

Helen Lawrence got an A in Miss Atwell's course without attending lectures or quizzes.

The Chi Omegas deserve exposure for having pledged her. There could be no reason except that they have three Physical Ed. majors, and they haven't figured out yet whether Miss Atwell or Miss Lawrence runs the gym.

Dorothy Hefflebower for taking Bob Savage away from the A. D. Pi's. He has been in that chapter for years and passed from one girl to the next, and now Hefflebower has him.

Ida Anderson, for wearing Grant VanDemark's pin. Could the girl be mercenary?

Ruth Molyneaux always has on at least a half a dozen fraternity pins and several rings. Is she playing sweetheart to Leonard Stevens, sister, or is her interest motherly?

Sigma Kappa pledged Pat Beall after every other chapter on the campus had had a hectic wire from its William and Mary chapter warning it about her.

Marie Siegrist for doing all Pi Phi's dirty work for four years. What will they do without Marie? Flourish maybe, but they certainly will have to hire someone to do the little odd jobs around for them. They pledged her Gamma Eta Zeta which was a bold stroke.

SNAPPY SAYINGS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

For Panhellenic—

"To please everybody is impossible."

In June—

"The work is done and well done." (???)

After joining an organization—

"Characters and habits are not easily taken up or suddenly laid aside."

Rushing—

"We must bear up and make the best of mankind as they are, since we cannot have them as we wish."

On going to G. W.—

"The best means of forming a manly, virtuous and happy people will be found in the right education of youth." (We wonder?)

After being assigned term papers—

"We should never despair." (Blah)

Steve Nyman—

"Men are very apt to run into extremes."

For the Inter-Fraternity Council—

"Men who are always together, get tired of each other's company."

After the "Razzberry" and "Petticoat" appear—

"There is no restraining men's tongues or pens, when charged with a little vanity."

Where is this?

"The company, in which you will improve most, will be least expensive to you."

During rush week—

"Speak not evil of the absent, it is unjust."

Only as Croissant would say it—

"Gentlemen, you will permit me to put on my spectacles, for I have not only grown gray, but almost blind."

In the Food Shop—

"We must not despair; the game is yet in our own hands; to play it well is all we have to do."

Now that we have buses on G Street—

"Could the poor horses tell their tale, it would be a strain still more lamentable."

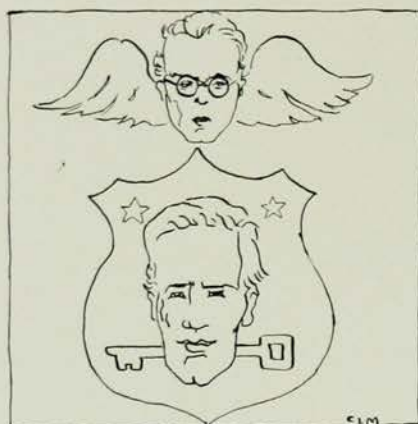

Troubadours—

"The scene is at last closed. I feel myself eased of a load of public care."

"OH, GEORGE!"

LETTERS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Valley Forge, November 27, 1778.

Mr. Fletcher Henderson (not colored),
Theta Delta Chi House,
George Washington University.
Dear Fletch:

I am writing as one good brother to another (I am not affiliated with the Chi Deuteron Chapter at Howard University) to ask for help for our troops. As you no doubt have read Elbert Hubbard's "What Every Young Man Should Know", it is going to be d— cold at V. F. (short for Valley Forge—TSK) this winter; and we are going to need some new recruits. We hear that Jack Smith and John Madigan are rather good cooks, having played chief-chef for the chapter all winter with only three of the brothers dying from ptomaine poisoning and one from desepsia. So I wonder if you could lend them to us for the winter? You won't need them as the whole chapter (pardon me,—“charge”) seems to be eating en mess at Jenner's.

Let me know by return mail about this. (I mean really. Don't make me wait as long as Shep and Courtland have to for your term papers, as we want these boys before April.)

Remember me to Frank Westbrook, and tell Steve Nyman that I haven't forgotten that five bucks he owes me.

Yours in good ole' Theta Delt,

THE HON. GEORGE WASHINGTON, ESQ.

January 20, 1782.

To the Lamba Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa.
Dear Brothers:

It is with a great deal of pride that I commend you on your excellent basketball battle last night against the Sigma Nuers. You played a pretty lousy game, but the Sigma Nu's played a worse one, which is a good thing. Now that that's over, you can break those pledges.

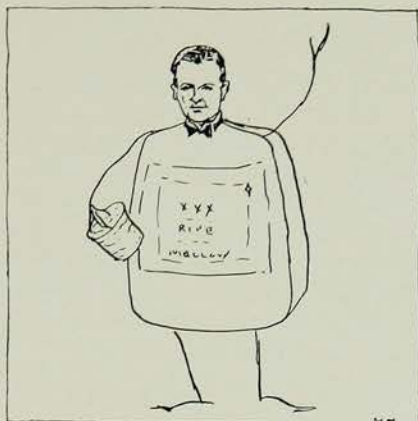

As you know, I am a Phi Sigma Kappa myself, and used to score a good many points (in various and sundry ways) for the chapter at Dart-mouth.

Give my best what-ho to De Witt Bennett and warn Win Weitzel that the Indians are on the trail of his Hagerstown Almanac.

Yours with a Greek word,

GEORGE.

May 11, 1779.

George Washington Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Dear Brother:

This is to serve notice on you that one of the good brothers, Jack Wilson by name, has been running around the campus posing as a midget. I feel that it is my duty to warn you of this incognito.

With the warmest of fraternal affection,
I am,

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE WASHINGTON,
Columbia U. Chapter.

March 20, 1772.

Sigma Nu,
The Lurvers.
Howd'y Ole' Beans:

Do you know that it has been suggested that this Umph chapter be invited to christen the new Snake house at the Washington Zoo? It is duly proper, as you can readily see, that Snake greet Snake.

George Schmidt (note that it is spelled -dt) is to be chairman as he is most familiar with the sights of Snakes and has the art of cleaning up.

Hoping that you will consider this seriously, I am,

From a lover to numerous lurvers,
GEORGE WASHINGTON.

At Sea.

Miss Ruth Warren,
Chi Omega.
Dear Ruthy:

As much as I hate to say this, I find it virtually impossible to keep that date with you Saturday night. I've always wanted to attend one of the Chi Omega brawls at the Bethesda Woman's Club, as I hear that that is a very doggy place. But I am going to have to meet old Cornwallis at York-Town Saturday afternoon and I don't think I could get a plane down to Bethesda before Sunday noon.

Thanks a lot for asking me, and better luck next time ole' girl.

GEORGIE.

Miss Jane Menefee,
Pi Beta Phi.
Dearest:

Anytime.

Have just heard that during my necessary absence at this Man's War, you have been untrue to me. It is rumored (and I hate to have your name bandied about by my men) that you have twice been seen in the company of a short dark Phi Sig called Wallie Schutt. Is this true? I have even heard that you lunched with him once. Now this will never do. I cannot have my women dallying with other men.

Please consider what I have said, and meet me at the Food Shop tomorrow for a sandwich. We will try to straighten out the whole unpleasant affair.

Yours without a struggle,

G. WASHINGTON.

Miss Edith Lee McCoy,
K. K. G.
Edith, old thing:

At Large.

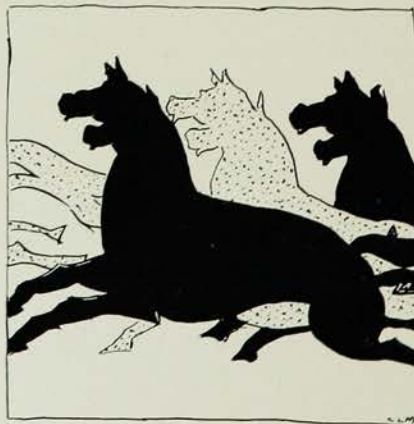

Now is the time when all good men should come to the aid of their country. You see it is like this; we are leaving next week for Valley Forge where we shall spend the winter. (It's a great place for winter sports and promises to be quite fashionable this season.) And the truth of the matter is that we are running devilishly short of troops—

Now here's how you can help me. (Shh!) I was wondering if you could send the Kappa pledges down. You seem to have enough to make a full regiment, and, with your rigid pledge training all year, they should be pretty good by this time at the tin soldier games we are playing. Then, too, they will give the men something to think about of a long winter's evening.

Hope you will comply, for in the memory of the good ole' days at G. W. when you and I were pledged together.

Logically a K. K. G.

GEORGIS.

"VALLEY FORGE"

As I stood on the Delaware
My feet were full of blisters,
Flashing icicles in my hair,
Snow drops on my whiskers.

My men were thirsty, so was I,
Without my "schnopps," I soon would die.

I sent General Hubbard down to the cupboard
To get the poor men some beer.
When he got there, the cupboard was bare.
I forgot prohibition is here.

Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
I'd give my kingdom for a bar.

With wine and whiskey my brave men
Could put the British to a rout.
Kappa Alpha, S. A. E.,
Down Town Drunks could help me out.

Sickler's wit, heaven sent,
Pleases not the men long spent.

Look at General Fantan,
Courageous T. U. O.
He's put a blanket on his can
To keep away the snow.

An orchid to the K. D.'s
Who keep my men amused.
A scallion to the Delta Zetas
Who feed my men their booze.

A scallion to the Kappas
Whom rushing now distracts.
Perhaps their failures in the past
Now motivate their acts.

The Theta Delts are helpful,
They give the war new breath.
Economize on servants,
But work their frosh to death.

The Sigma Nu's are helpful, too.
Our chances they enhance.
They're just the type of fellows
To throw a nice script dance.

I hear they've banned the Phi Mu's,
Their actions could not bear.
It was not necessary.
No one knew that they were there.

I knew there'd be a dischord.
Just look at old Pi Phi.
They've sold their grand piano
For a case of potent rye.

Look, the Phi Sigs and the Chi O's
Their wrestling lessons bother.
Oh, Martha, won't they look too cute
Wrestling with each other?

Imagine Dotty Hefflebower
With a chin lock on Bill Hoover,
And Bill, his fist all doubled up
Attempting hard to groove her.

Oh, Lord, please take away the darkness,
The "sub" in readiness now nestles.
Bill Weisbrod's on the other shore,
His eyes, as usual, on La Wessels.

Why can't he leave that woman home?
We cannot use her here.
Or is Spencer on the warpath,
Her tummy full of—agua?

Ah, now starts the struggle,
Tremaine lifts his baton.
Fellows, grab your "feed-bags,"
The struggle now is on.

"CHRIS SPIGNUL"
By Win Weitzel

Winter is gone in just one day,
I marvel at your new spring dress,
And watch you still from far away,
Anxious to feel your light caress.
That you are gone, my heart is sore;
I love you now, when flowers appear
And I might win your love once more;
But—I am far too lazy, dear.

School routine must be tolerated, but meal routine is just what you make of it.

Sometime soon, break away from the ordinary routine . . . come to the Guaranty Grill and see what a different result your order brings here.

We specialize in a 55 cent meal at dinner time . . . it sounds, in print, like other meals—but before you! . . . it looks and tastes different because it is cooked in simple, appetizing, American style.
